BOWCOCK GOES BACK TO WORK
WITH SIDENERAssistant Changes Mind After Writing Hot Note Refusing to Be Goat in
Rutherford Case.JUST TOOK DAY OFF,
JUDGE MIX REMARKSProsecutor Had Been Asked to Reconsider "Hasty Action"—Went Home Saying That He Was Ill.

Assistant Circuit Attorney John E. Bowcock, who sent a hot letter of resignation to Circuit Attorney Sidener yesterday, refusing to be made the "goat" of the Rutherford murder case and announcing flatly to a Post-Dispatch reporter that he had resigned, today took his usual place in Judge Mix's court and went to work as if nothing had happened.

To all appearances he is still an Assistant Circuit Attorney. When the first cases on the docket were called, Bowcock answered for the state and began reading the names of witnesses. He was asked by a Post-Dispatch reporter to explain a quick changeabout.

"Just say that old John Bowcock's gone back to work," was his answer.

To friends in the courtroom he reported as having said further: "I'm not going to do a damn thing to prosecute from now on."

Judge Mix, who heard the colloquy between Bowcock and reporters, said: "John just took a day off yesterday."

The letter of resignation, effective immediately, had been placed on Sidener's desk by Bowcock yesterday morning. In the meantime Bowcock talked with friends and began reading the names of witnesses in the Circuit Attorney's office.

Asked to Reconsider Action. They asked him to reconsider what they termed his "hasty action." Soon after this conference Bowcock left the Municipal Court building, stating that he was ill and would go home.

When Circuit Attorney Sidener reached his office he was apprised of what had occurred by assistants who talked with Bowcock. Sidener immediately adopted a policy of silence, refusing to affirm or deny Bowcock's resignation. Nor did he make public Bowcock's letter, as told exclusively in yesterday's Post-Dispatch, was a complete disavowal on his part of any responsibility for the Rutherford case settlement.

It took Sidener to task in heated language for what Bowcock said was an attempt to put the blame for the settlement on him. Bowcock declared that Sidener dictated the policy in this case and that he, as an subordinate, was bound to carry out his chief's orders.

Thinks News Stories Sufficient. Those close to Bowcock said today that he felt yesterday's news stories about his resignation were sufficient to clear him of any blame in the Rutherford case, and that now he is disposed to leave the case with Sidener and continue as an Assistant Circuit Attorney.

They point out that Bowcock is a candidate for the Republican nomination as Judge of the Court of Criminal Correction in the August primary. Having expressed himself on the Rutherford case and was repaid any damage he felt it might do him, politically, Bowcock does not want a clear break with Sidener, his sympathizers say.

After a week of newspaper publicity, in which many angles of the Rutherford murder case were disclosed, attorneys who had represented William Allen Scott Rutherford and Mrs. Tillie Tucker yesterday afternoon came out into the open with statements regarding their activities.

From the Rutherford side of the affair, former Assistant Circuit Attorney Verne R. C. Lacy issued an expense account purporting to show that $8000 of the $14,500 John Rutherford spent "to arrange matters so his brother could walk out of court with a fine of $500, went to Lacy and former Probate Judge W. W. Henderson, the Rutherford attorneys. Each got $4000 for arranging matters. Lacy set forth in his list of expenses a payment of $5500 to Mrs. Tillie Tucker, mother of the slain boy, who had been given $5000 when she would sign an affidavit asking clemency for Rutherford.

Bender in Dual Role. Coincident with Lacy's assertion that Mrs. Tucker had been paid $5500 appeared a statement from Samuel Bender, who played the dual role of her damage suit attorney and special prosecutor, and whose actions as a special prosecutor were criticized by Circuit Attorney Sidener yesterday when he

BROOKS PRESENTS PLAN TO RELIEVE TRAFFIC JAM

Extension of One-Way Street System to Include U. R. Lines, Proposed by Director in Speech.

A tentative plan for an extensive system of one-way streets to relieve traffic congestion in the downtown district was outlined by Director of Streets and Sewers Brooks in an address before the St. Louis Electrical Board of Trade today.

His plan is to designate all streets in the downtown district as one-way streets with the exception of Washington, which is a wide street, and Market street, which is to be widened. An attempt would be made to designate a considerable number of streets as one-way streets, but would increase the average speed of street cars from three to eight miles an hour, he declared.

Brooks described his plan as the first step in a system for co-ordinating vehicular movement which ultimately will comprise a system of one-way streets with street cars in subways.

The director has prepared a sketch, showing some of the one-way streets proposed for east of Eighth street. Olive street is shown as an eastbound street with Pine street westbound. Locust street, between Broadway and Twelfth boulevard, and Wash street, are westbound, with Franklin avenue eastbound. Broadway is southbound with Sixth street northbound, and Eighth street northbound with Ninth street southbound.

"The one-way system will give immediate relief to our traffic congestion with the least cost," Brooks said. "Subways will come eventually."

PRETTYMAN FACES
FLORIDA COURT ON CHARGES OF FRAUD

Real Estate Promoter, Formerly of St. Louis, Accused of Misrepresenting 'Daytona-DeLand Farms.'

So the State Alleges—Defendant Calls 100 Witnesses to Prove He Kept His Promises.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

DELAND, Fla., May 18.—Flanked by more than 100 witnesses, Harry E. Prettyman, former St. Louis subdivision promoter, is attempting in Volusia County Court here today to prove that he kept the flamboyant promises he made to purchasers of land in one of his various Florida realty projects.

He has been charged by the Florida State Realty Commission with misrepresentation and fraud in the sale of plots of a 44,000-acre farm development in Volusia County known as the Daytona-DeLand Farms. He faces revocation of his license if the charges are substantiated.

Accompanying his action with protestations of innocence, Prettyman had summoned a total of 144 witnesses to testify in his behalf. When the trial opened yesterday, however, some of the witnesses asked that he guarantee their expenses while in attendance. He declined to meet their demand and those who demurred were excused by the court.

Prosecution Begins Case. The prosecution yesterday attempted to show by testimony that the subdivision sold by Prettyman was marred and that Prettyman had failed to keep his promises to drain it and give it roads that his promise of a commercial airport was fraudulent and that the pledge that Government experimental stations would be located there was made without prospect of fulfillment.

Mrs. Leon Wake of Daytona Beach testified yesterday that she paid Prettyman $670 for some land in Daytona-DeLand Farms. She was told the property would be drained of water and skirted by hard roads, but the promise was not carried out, she averred.

Emil Wantakka of Chicago testified that he paid Prettyman $600 for 20 acres of "farm land" and four lots in the proposed "townsite." He declared the property was represented to him as dry and within six miles of the city limits of Daytona Beach. It was not, he said.

Wantakka said that when he made complaint he was allowed to select two other lots in the locality. That was last December, but he received his deed only last Saturday, after the charges had been filed, he said.

"Insulted for Any Purpose." The complaint against Prettyman was filed April 18 by Charles T. Branham of the Realty Commission. It charged that Daytona-DeLand Farms was partly under water and unsuitable for any purpose. It is charged Prettyman promised to have the ground drained, to have surface roads and to establish a dehydrating plant.

Prettyman's theatrical exploitation methods brought him to prominence two years ago in Tampa when he took over a sales contract for Oldsmar, a tract near that city, established by R. E. Olds, automobile manufacturer, as a model farm.

Prettyman opened his campaign in spectacular fashion with talk of a huge tractor factory project and a vineyard combined to give color to his statement that the city was to have a tripartite development as a manufacturing, farming and resort center.

As a final touch a Tampa newspaper carried a story that oil had been discovered in Oldsmar. Nothing more was ever heard of the "discovery" and the vineyard and tractor factory projects were never carried to fulfillment.

In Row Over Tampa Park Site. During the development of Oldsmar, Prettyman gave the city of Tampa a tract for a municipal park, or at least it was generally believed he had done so. Recently, however, it was discovered the city had no deed to the tract and developers who took over Oldsmar after Prettyman left it last summer declared the park did not belong to him in the first place. Prettyman countered with the statement that he had not given the city the park, anyhow, but city officials say he did.

$30,000 TAKEN IN HOLDUP
OF NORTH ST. LOUIS TRUST CO.
BY GANG OF SIX GUNMEN

Robbers Dash Into Depository at 3500 North Grand at 10:40 A. M., Shouting "Stick 'Em Up!"

Shouting and brandishing pistols, six robbers today held up 40 employees and customers in the North St. Louis Trust Co., at 3500 North Grand boulevard, in the heart of a busy North Side district, and escaped with about $30,000 in cash.

They made their entrance at 10:40 a. m., about five minutes after the close of a directors' meeting, and when most of the officers of the bank were still in the banking room or in the real estate department, just north of the tellers' cages.

Three of the robbers dashed in at the main entrance on the corner of Grand and Hebert, while the other three rushed in at the real estate department door, a short distance north.

Six or seven persons in the real estate department were herded quickly into the banking room, where a group of frightened customers already was being driven toward a wall at the side of the room.

Robbers Take Stations in Bank. "Stick 'em up, stick 'em up," the robbers kept shouting as they waved their weapons and shoved them at persons slow in obeying their commands.

After entering the bank the robbers took various stations. One, armed with a sawed-off shotgun, stood at the main door. Another ran to the rear of the banking room and covered Charles W. Owens, secretary-treasurer, who was talking to a visitor. Two more made the customers and employees kneel on the floor facing the wall, and the remaining two dashed behind the enclosure to the door of the cage of W. H. Hill, assistant treasurer.

"Come out of there," one robber shouted at Hill. No effort was made to take more than $3000 in his cage, but he was marched to the vault in the rear and ordered to open it.

It was unlocked and the lock was slow," Hill afterward told reporters for the Post-Dispatch. "All the time I was trying to open it the robbers kept cursing and waving their pistols like crazy men. Finally it opened and I carried out the money from it—about $11,000 in currency. They put it in sacks and carried it to the front door."

Teller Made to Lie on Floor. Meanwhile, R. A. Krueger, another teller, had been forced to lie on the floor of his cage by one robber, while another stood at the cage door. About $15,000, which was in Krueger's cage, was stolen, including a $4900 deposit just been made by a messenger for the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. A policeman, who had accompanied the messenger to the bank, departed about five minutes before the robbery.

Edwin Branahl, the third teller, was marched from his cage by the robbers who had covered Hill and about $4000 was taken from his enclosure.

With all the cages cleaned out except Hill's, which was not looted, the robbers fled to the front door, darted across the sidewalk and leaped into an automobile, in which a seventh man was waiting.

Owens grabbed his revolver and rushed to the door. The report of a weapon being discharged was heard. A man burst into the door. "Don't go out, they're shooting that shotgun," he said. "They took PARIS, May 18.—Marshal Pilsudski's militaristic ambitions form the real background for the successful coup d'etat in Poland.

The Marshal, though filling the comparatively modest position of Minister of War in the government formed by Prof. Bartel, leader of the Polish Labor party, is in fact complete dictator.

A good half of the Poles do not want a Pilsudski dictatorship and fear the consequences. He frightened them by his adventurous spirit during the first three years after which he was minister of State; and they are opposed to the military clique with which he surrounded himself.

A Pole of Tradition. Marshal Pilsudski is the Pole of tradition. He is at home in uniform. He loves the clank of swords and the click of heels. He has a romantic conception of himself as the incarnation of all that is Polish.

To Western European or American eyes he is rather absurd in the theatrical military staging he has provided for himself, but it makes a tremendous hit with young Poles, and it is the glory of his race. The young Poles' world is based on glory. They dream of a Poland of great power such as it exercised hundreds of years ago.

They are ready at any moment to leap on horses, brandish sabres and gallop off madly against an enemy. They are the young Poles who four 36 hours in the streets of Warsaw until they put Pilsudski in power—to drive out enemies from Poland whom Pilsudski conquered up.

To understand what has happened in Poland this fervent, patriotic nationalism must be grasped. Gen. Haller and Gen. Sikorski do not have it. They, like Ignace Paderecki, whom Pilsudski forced out of power, are Western European Poles. Gen. Haller brought an army of American Poles to Poland after the war and they all were back in America within a year. They were too American. They could not grasp the mentality of the native-born Pole and returned to America, disgusted.

Pilsudski's Followers. The so-called reactionary Poles, such as the peasant landlord and the Austrian Premier Witos, or Liberals like Count Skirmak, are born of this century. Pilsudski, a Lithuanian under the Russian Empire, later an Austrian, in Galicia, combines the medieval awashubacker with the advanced Socialist agitator.

His followers in the army are of the oldest Polish aristocracy and of the youngest classes. Being a soldier, he put soldiers before everyone else, gave them land and a special status. The Socialized workers are full of these ex-soldiers.

As dictator there is a difference between him and Benito Mussolini, who got power with the support of the financial, conservative interests.

Pilsudski is supported by his military followers and the Socialists.

300 CITIZENS AT TESTIMONIAL DINNER TO WALL

Former Director of Public Utilities Praised by Speakers for Exceptional Efficiency in Office.

FUNCTION ATTENDED BY TWO EX-MAYORS

Wall's Only Thought Was to Serve St. Louis and Was Always Ready to Give Advice, Kiel Says.

"Some love him for himself, others love him for the enemies he has made," it was said in one of the tributes paid to Edward E. Wall, lately Director of Public Utilities, at the dinner given in his honor at the Coronado Hotel last night. This was about the nearest reference to Mayor Miller, who removed Wall from office April 1, on the ground of insubordination.

The speaker who referred to Wall's "enemies" was Philip N. Moore, who was toastmaster. Another speaker, Edward Plad, former Water Commissioner, said that Wall could have retained his office if he had been willing to ignore his oath of office and violate the provisions of the charter.

About 300 in Attendance.

Nearly 300 men attended the dinner, which was arranged by the Associated Engineering Societies of St. Louis and the Engineers' Club. Among the guests were Fred H. Kreismann and Henry W. Kiel, former Mayors; W. E. Rolfe, assistant to the President of the Board of Public Service; W. W. Horner, chief engineer of streets and sewers; Joseph M. Slater, Street Commissioner; Felix Gunn, Deputy City Engineer; Herman Bader, Clerk of the Criminal Court; James Sullivan, Superintendent in the Water Department; Charles Hertenstein, former chairman of the Efficiency Board; C. M. Talbot, former Director of Streets and Sewers; James W. Byrnes, B. J. Taussig, E. N. Tolkaez, Edward Hadden and P. W. Coyte. Letters were received from Rolla Wells, former Mayor, and Secretary of War Dwight D. Davis.

Kreismann, speaking of Wall's service as Water Commissioner, said that, as the Water Department's funds are segregated from other city revenues, there is need for exceptional efficiency in guarding them against waste. He said he had always found Wall ready to co-operate with him to the fullest extent. One of Mayor Miller's charges against Wall was that Wall had refused to co-operate with him and with members of the Board of Public Service.

Kiel jokingly praised Wall as the man "who taught me all I know about water." He said that, in the days before the Eighteenth Amendment, he found that Wall "wanted to talk about water all the time."

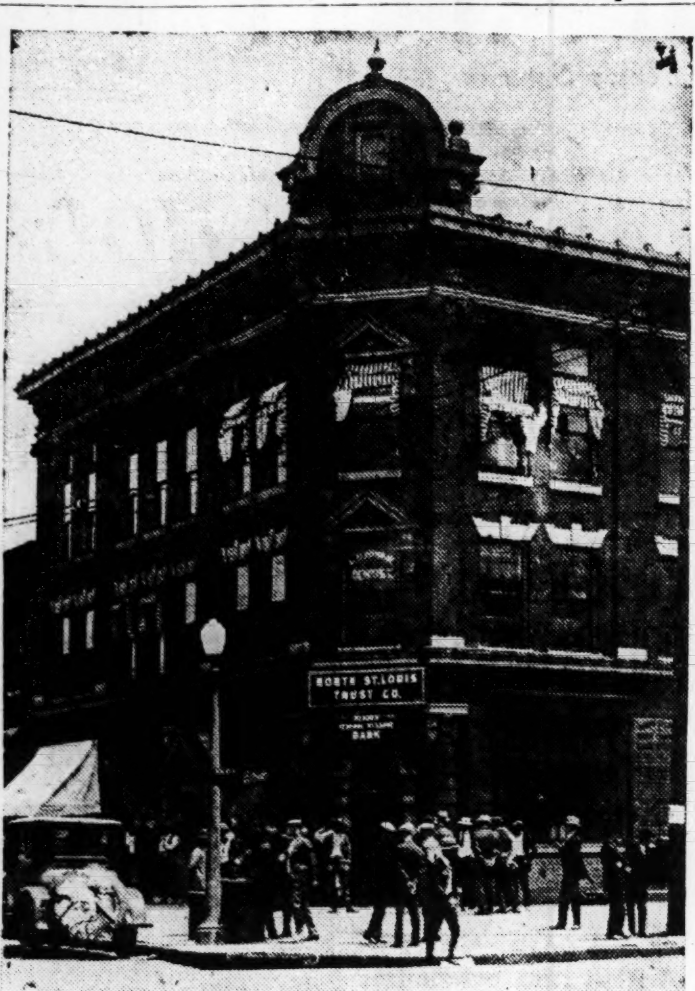

Kiel's Estimate of Wall. "We knew it was safe to approve any expenditure from the water funds," he said, "because Wall was a tightwad. He wouldn't recommend the expenditure unless it was necessary. Felix (Deputy City Engineer) would say, 'That's all right; it comes from Wall.' In other city revenue, though, we had our troubles. We had a deficit, but no one would be known of it if Jim Byrnes hadn't let them in on the secret," with a gesture toward his Democratic opponent in the 1921 campaign. "But I see there is a deficit now," he continued.

Kiel said that, in the first of his three terms as Mayor, he had to learn from his subordinates, and that Wall was always ready to advise him. "His only thought was to serve St. Louis," he said.

Wall, in his response, praised his former associates in office. He told how, as a farm youth, he determined to go to the University of Missouri to study engineering, and of a neighbor's comment, "It's a plum waste of money. He hasn't sense enough to be a farmer, let alone an engineer." Determination to show this man his mistake had helped him to progress, Wall said. Proud That He Still Has Friends. "The engineer who is placed at the head of a municipal division or department," he said, "must maintain warfare against seekers of doubtful favors or irregular expenditures of public funds. Because the income of the Water Department is segregated, it has seemed to have unlimited resources; hence, one who tries to exercise proper economy in handling its funds becomes known as a growl, without companion or human kindness. So I am proud that there are so many left who are on good terms with me. The man who is afraid of making enemies is not likely to make many stout friends. The best way is to run affairs so the other fellow will hesitate to make an enemy of you."

Other speakers were former Director Talbert, James C. Travilla, former Street Commissioner; Philip C. Scanlan, former Park Commissioner; Joseph L. Hornsby, former

ST. LOUIS WOMAN SUES FOR DIVORCE IN PARIS

Former Charlotte Nash Once Represented City in Bathing Beauty Contest.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch. PARIS, May 13.—Mrs. Charlotte Nash Nirdlinger, of St. Louis, has filed a petition for a divorce from Fred G. Nixon Nirdlinger, former theater director in Philadelphia. They were married in Elkton, Md., Feb. 3, 1924.

Mrs. Nirdlinger, who is 26 years old, the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. B. Nash of St. Louis, was "Miss St. Louis" in the annual bathing beauty contest at Atlantic City in 1923. She met her husband there and afterward appeared in vaudeville theaters he directed.

She was the third wife of Nirdlinger, who is 47 years old. On July 21, 1925, his second wife, Mrs. Laura McKenna Nirdlinger, divorced him at Paris on grounds of infidelity. Previously he was in difficulty over the status of a Philadelphia woman.

Nirdlinger has spent considerable time in Europe. Last December Mrs. Charlotte Nash Nirdlinger went to Paris for a reconciliation with him, having been home for nine months after a disagreement.

the only man tried for the robbery. At the first trial policemen told of Pillow's identification of Hogan and he was convicted, but the Supreme Court of Missouri held this testimony was inadmissible and reversed the case. After three mistrials Hogan finally was acquitted last March.

DOCTOR'S ADVICE IGNORED IN CASE OF PYROMANIAC

William Kaufman, Although Pronounced Wholly Insane, Is Sent Back to Prison for Five Years.

In the face of medical testimony that he was a pyromaniac and should be treated in a sanitarium instead of being imprisoned, William Kaufman, 23 years old, who has kindled nine fires here and caused $350,000 damage, yesterday was sentenced by a jury in Circuit Judge Mix's court to five years in the State penitentiary.

Kaufman was released from the penitentiary Dec. 26 after serving part of a two-year term for arson. In entering a plea of insanity for him yesterday, his attorney, Raymond Hartmann, said the imprisonment had not cured the firebug, but had aggravated his condition. Hartmann asked that Kaufman be committed to the City Sanitarium for medical treatment.

Testimony of Doctor.

"Wholly insane" was the judgment of Kaufman pronounced on the witness stand by Dr. William Nelson, director of the Municipal Psychiatric Clinic. Dr. Nelson said Kaufman should not be returned to the penitentiary as his first term there was without results. He said the penitentiary is not equipped to handle such cases.

Dr. Nelson recalled that he had examined Kaufman in 1924, when he was charged with setting fire to a building. He found Kaufman's mental development below normal. Later examinations by Dr. Nelson have shown material deterioration in Kaufman's mentality.

Kaufman is not a violent maniac, Dr. Nelson continued, but is a child about 12 years old.

With Dr. Nelson, Kaufman said he liked to set things on fire for the excitement—"the thrill"—he experienced in watching the flames and the fire fighters. Such a man, Dr. Nelson said, is much better off in an institution where he can receive scientific treatment and his condition can be relieved and perhaps cured.

Argument of Prosecutor.

Assistant Circuit Attorney Lemon argued that Kaufman was sane enough to know the difference between right and wrong when he committed arson and that he should be punished for his crimes by being imprisoned. He pointed out that Kaufman had denied his guilt for several hours after being arrested for his latest orgy of fires, and that confessed only when relatives told the truth about his movements and destroyed his alibi.

The specific charge on which Kaufman was tried was third-degree arson, in connection with a fire April 10 at the yard of Charles Naber & Sons Lumber Co., 3720 North Broadway, where damage of $100,000 was caused. The fire also spread to the Mechanics' Planing Mill Co., 3742 North Broadway, and the McKinley Bridge.

Other fires set by Kaufman that night were at the Western Lumber Co., Blair avenue and Palm ists. What is likely to prove most interesting about the Pilsudski dictatorship is that he will remain a radical, at least in theory. In fact, he is not likely to do more than previously, when he showed constructive ability only in building up the army. And while big, the army is not co-ordinated and effective, as the bolshevik army showed in 1920 by throwing it back hundreds of miles.

The program will be first for strong military power. This is shown by the last issue of the Polish military paper, Polka Zbrojna, which demands military control of the country; an executive unhampered by politicians; a Parliament confined to making laws—in other words, complete military dictatorship.

Pilsudski wanted power, and he took it. Poland was threatened neither from within nor without. But the economic crisis and the German-Russian treaty following Locarno created nervousness useful to an ambitious man.

As soon as former Premier Witos was elected, it now appears, Pilsudski's partisans went through Warsaw and other principal cities scattering handbills against the "enemies of Poland."

First Offenses in 1924.

A series of fires on Sept. 1, 1924, for which Kaufman was originally sent to prison, included blazes at the Boeckler Lumber Co., Hall and Mallinckrodt streets; the Mertens Ice and Fuel Co., 3137 North Thirtieth street; the Crescent Planing Mill, 2225 North Ninth street, and several sheds and outbuildings in the same neighborhood.

A recent examination of Kaufman revealed a large depression in his skull, and Kaufman said he had been kicked by a male when a child. Chief of Police Gork then said it appeared to be a case for the Psychiatric Clinic. Kaufman has been living at 3249 North Twentieth street. His wife and two children live at 3500 North Twentieth street.

TELLS OF FINANCE FIRM'S METHODS OF HIDING USURY

E. A. Bakemeier Gives Further Testimony on Altering Books of Republic Corporation.

The manner in which ledger sheets of the Republic Finance Corporation, dealer in commercial paper in the Arcade Building, were falsified to hide alleged usury, was told yesterday by Edward A. Bakemeier, until last Wednesday assistant secretary and treasurer of the company. On that day he was discharged by George H. Field, president of the company, following his testimony that Field had directed the falsifications.

Field was endeavoring, Bakemeier testified, to rescue the company from the suit of C. J. Gonterman, former subdivision promoter who is seeking to recover $100,000 of alleged usury on loans totalling $400,000 in five years.

Bakemeier yesterday produced the loose ledger leaves which he prepared and inserted in the ledger. Where the discounts on security given by Gonterman were large, two methods were employed. The first was to split the discount, leaving the smaller portion credited to the company in the ledger discount column, and transferring the balance to the personal account of Field. The other was to transfer the larger sum to the "Gonterman reserve account." This in effect was a credit to Gonterman, representing a fund on which he was privileged to draw.

Field told Bakemeier testified that "maybe when Gonterman sees his reserve account, he will drop the suit." The sum thus credited to the Gonterman reserve was about $13,300, Bakemeier testified.

The changes were copied into the books, Bakemeier declared, from work sheets which he also produced. He said that the work sheets were largely his own handwriting, but were compiled in consultation with Field and he pointed out on them certain notations which, he said, were in Field's handwriting.

Field, who was present at the hearing before Referee Emil E. Brill Jr., in the latter's office, in the Railway Exchange Building, examined the sheets, shook his head vigorously and laughed scornfully. Field left the company the day following Bakemeier's original testimony. Certain of the directors indicated that he was forced to resign. He said yesterday to reporters that he resigned of his own volition. "The company is solvent and its affairs all straight," he added.

Bakemeier has declared that the sheets showing the true status of the Gonterman account were removed in August or September of last year, and the falsified sheets substituted. They remained in the books until January of this year, when he became alarmed at the consequences to himself should the falsification be used in court. He then extracted the false sheets and put back the original true sheets, he declared.

Orla M. Hill, attorney for Gonterman, asked if any in the company beside Field knew of the presence of the false sheets. At this point, Bakemeier appeared to become a reluctant witness, though he brought in the name of W. C. Hanser, vice president of the company, who habitually audited the books. Following the insertion of the false sheets, no audit was made until he insisted upon one in October, Bakemeier said. Then, he continued, he made up a financial statement for the audit based upon the showing of the true sheets. The books could not possibly have been balanced with the false sheets in, Bakemeier declared, and the statement itself would not check with the books.

Bakemeier said he did not inform Field that he had replaced the false sheets with the true sheets, but that on the day of the opening of hearings in the usury suit, Field asked him if he still had them. He replied that he had them at home. Field then said, Bakemeier testified: "If you don't have those sheets in here today, I will have you arrested for stealing the company's records."

Police Guard for Witness. Later the same day when Bakemeier, as a witness, accused Field of trying to hide alleged usury, Field started to attack him in a corridor of the Railway Exchange Building. This caused Bakemeier to appeal to Referee Brill for protection when he appeared yesterday to resume the stand. Accordingly, Bakemeier was flanked by two city detectives yesterday until it appeared that Field would make no further attack and they were dismissed.

The hearing will be resumed tomorrow. Vice-President Hanser, the company has been subpoenaed as a witness.

HORSESHOE LAKE CLUB FACTIONS IN LAWSUIT

Control of 1000 Acres of Marsh Land Involved in Transfer of Corporation Stock.

The Horseshoe Lake Hunting and Fishing Club, a group of seven St. Louisans fond of duck hunting, has split into two factions over ownership of the stock in its corporation holding its 1000 acres of marshy land in the north of St. Charles County, north of St. Louis. The differences culminated in the suit filed in Circuit Court yesterday.

Formed in 1897, the club leased its land, in a section where ducks congregate in season, but in 1904 bought the place, paying $19,000 cash and $7000 later. Each faction holds 14 of the 30 shares in the Horseshoe Lake Realty Co., par value being $1000 a share, and two shares, acquired in addition by a member of one faction, are in dispute. The suit alleges the land is worth $100,000 now, which give the shares a value of $3333 each.

Want Directors Removed. The two additional shares, which the suit asserts were bought surreptitiously last October by one member, Harry C. Adam, president of the Realty Co., 914 Pine street, were obtained for $1100 each. It is averred.

Adam, C. F. Mathey of 3444 Russell boulevard and the Realty Co. are named as defendants. The plaintiffs are Charles L. Kraft, a partner of Whitaker & Co., brokers; A. C. Kennedy, head of Kennedy Jewelry & Manufacturing Co., and Adolph E. Winkelmeier, a retired baker.

Other members of the club and stockholders are Dr. W. J. Burleigh of 55 Aberdeen place, Adam's brother, Fred B. Adam, president of the Frank Adam Electric Co. The plaintiffs ask that Adam be set aside and that he and Mathey be removed as directors. A temporary receiver is asked also. Dr. Burleigh is the third director of the corporation.

Hunting Area Limited.

Kraft, Kennedy and Winkelmeier own 14 shares, it is stated; Harry Adam, Mathey and Dr. Burleigh have 15 shares, including the two sold to Adam, and Fred Adam has one share. When the company was formed Dr. Burleigh, Mathey, Kennedy and Kraft each had taken five shares, while 10 shares were held to meet later payments on the land. Eight of these were issued to other members between 1904 and 1916, the suit says, and the corporation disposed with formal meetings. Members contributed formally to pay taxes and other expenses.

One of the allegations in the suit is that Groves obligated himself not to have part in the building of any hotel which would compete with Grove Park Inn, and that Grove violated this. A letter written by Grove to Seely in 1921, in which he purchased of other hotel property, was introduced into the record.

Grove wrote that, when he bought the Manor and the Battery Park Hotel, he believed it was better to do this than to let someone get hold of the Battery Park Hotel who might tear it down and build a hotel which would be a real competitor of Grove Park Inn.

There was considerable testimony as to Seely's experience in managing the Atlanta Georgian, a daily newspaper in which Grove invested about $200,000. The purchase of Grove's testimony about this was that the paper lost money under Seely's management, but was finally sold at a profit to Grove.

Grove said Seely accounted for the losses of the paper by saying that the Candlers, makers of Coca-Cola, had influenced business men not to advertise in the Georgian. "This," Grove continued, "was mainly because of the fight Mr. Seely had made on the Candlers, claiming that they used caffeine in their Coca-Cola, which it was they did not use."

Edwin W. Grove, millionaire patent medicine manufacturer, built Grove Park Inn at Asheville, N. C., as a monument to himself, he said in a deposition given here. "But," he added, "I did not expect it to be such an expensive monument during my life."

Grove's testimony, given last week in a deposition, relates to the suit of his son-in-law, Fred L. Seely, who seeks to enforce an agreement of 25 years ago. By the agreement, Seely contends, Grove obligated himself to leave to Seely, in his will, an option between control of the Paria Medicine Co., of St. Louis and control of all Grove's property outside that company. The amount involved is estimated at from $5,000,000 to $6,000,000.

Grove, in testifying as to his hotel investment, said he did not expect Grove Park Inn to pay any big dividends over carrying charges and all expenses. "But I did not expect it to be a loss after it got started," he added.

Traced to Friction With Premier — Bids
From U. S. Alarm Italians.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and the Copyright, 1926, by the Press and Publisher Publishing Co. (New York World and Post-Dispatch).

MENTOUE, France, May 18.—The indisposition of Arturo Toscanini, which caused him to withdraw from the Scala Theater before the end of the season, is but the culmination of three years of friction between the eminent conductor and Premier Mussolini, investigation reveals.

As a matter of fact Toscanini enjoys good health but is contemplating leaving La Scala altogether unless, between now and the next operating season, the directors of the great opera house give way to him. For three consecutive years Fascists in Milan have told Toscanini that he must tell the orchestra to play the Fascist hymn, "Giovannanza" during the performances of April 21, which ordinarily was observed as the birthday of Rome, but is now kept by Fascist command, also as labor, colonial and empire day. On each of the three years Toscanini refused emphatically to allow his orchestra to play the Fascist hymn.

"I refuse to turn the Scala into a market place for Fascist demonstrations," Toscanini declared. "They put the square outside and also the Galleria nearby for that, but while I conduct the Scala orchestra it will remain the home of opera and never will it become a propaganda platform."

Closed Theater on Holidays.
To cut short the heated argument the conductor arranged to have the opera house closed on each of the three holidays, pleading the need of rehearsing some new opera.

This year Premier Mussolini happened to be in Milan, when Puccini's incomplete opera, "Turandot," was to be given for the first time. The directors of the Scala, who are among the most important personages in Milan, visited the dictator and asked him to honor the opera house with his presence for the first night of the performance.

To their confusion, so the story is told in opera circles, the dictator came, sat in the box and cried: "Never will my feet cross the threshold of the Scala until Toscanini, the anti-Fascist, goes from here. How dare he refuse to play 'Giovannanza'?"

The directors rushed to Toscanini, who was supervising the finishing touches of "Turandot," and told him what the Premier had said, and begged as the greatest favor that he allow "Giovannanza" to be played on the first night of the posthumous opera was to be presented.

"Never, and for nobody," the director replied. Toscanini was so indignant at their insistence that he threatened to leave the Scala immediately and forever. They persuaded him to remain for the first and second performance of the opera, but after these were given he left.

Anti-Fascists in Milan are delighted with his stand against converting La Scala into a political arena, but the theater directors, who are mostly ardent Fascists, heartily wish the question was peacefully settled. Many of them blame Toscanini's recent American tour, because at that time he received so many offers to conduct in the United States that now he is entirely independent.

ing at the hotel while he sued the management because the Majestic was protected by insurance. Bender's allegations in the damage suit are that the hotel was careless in permitting Rutherford to be about the premises that night, drunk and armed with two pistols.

When Lacy issued his statement it was understood that he spoke also for his colleague, Judge Henderson, who from the beginning of the case has declined to comment on any phase of it. Aside from the major items—the $4000 fees each to Lacy and Henderson and the payment of $5500 to Mrs. Tucker, Lacy itemized the following expenditures:

Court costs, $75; Commissioner's fee for depositions, $75; stenographers' fees for copying depositions, $125; services of witnesses, $16; fine paid by Rutherford on plea of guilty, $500; payment of $500 wage to Negro witness, $2; these expenditures all totaled $14,278, but Lacy said there were incidental expenses which would make the gross total about $14,500.

"I got what I wanted. I don't begrudge the money," John Rutherford told reporters who saw him at Pine Bluff, Ark., where the Rutherford family has been entrenched in wealth and social position for years.

Think Division Is Fair.
Asked whether he thought the payment of $5500 to Mrs. Tucker and $5000 to Rutherford's attorneys was a fair division, Lacy said he thought it was.

"Under the law Mrs. Tucker could only collect $10,000 for her husband's death," he explained. "She still has her suit against the hotel. In pleading guilty our client acknowledged liability. I think if we had gone to trial there would have been an acquittal."

Liquor Found in Hardware Store.
In a search for liquor in a hardware store at 2005 South Jefferson avenue yesterday, prohibition agents found only a few ounces of moonshine, they reported, and also 15 cases and 31 pint bottles of home brew. The raid was made after an agent reported having bought a drink of whiskey and a bottle of home brew there. The proprietor, William M. Weakley, was arrested, and released on bond, charged with possession of liquor. He said he kept the liquor for himself and friends.

U. R. REORGANIZERS AND CITY AT ODDS ON 2 MAIN POINTS

Transit Company Wants to Be Rid of Mill Tax, but Municipal Treasury Needs
the Money.

DISCUSSION TAKEN UP AGAIN TODAY

Other Issue Is Nullification
Clause in the Franchise
—No Agreement in Sight
Yet.

Except for two points, the city and reorganizers of the United Railways are at the end of their discussion of the terms of the service-at-cost ordinance by which the railway company will be re-franchised when it emerges from receivership. So far as finances are concerned, the company is ready to emerge and awaits only agreement with the city on its franchise.

The company wants to be rid of the mill tax—a tax of a tenth of a cent on each revenue passenger carried. The United Railways is in arrears in this payment more than $3,000,000. The discussion at this time is how long a period, in what annual payments—and whether the city shall continue to collect the tax.

The company contends that the burden is the car riders', not theirs. If the city insists on the tax the company will continue to pass it on to the rider, but points out that it thus is handicapped in its effort to reduce fares or keep them from increasing. The mill tax plus franchise taxes amounts to $600,000 yearly. The company suggests all be abolished.

City Pleads Necessity.
The city admits that the taxes are upon the riders, the class least able to pay taxes of any kind, but pleads necessity. The city has reached its constitutional maximum of direct taxes, $1.35 on each $100 of valuation, yet it has a deficit. It needs the $600,000 and if it does not collect it indirectly from car riders it must seek some other indirect method. It prefers to let the car riders pay.

If the city insists upon continuing the tax, the company replies, let it be taken from the company's treasury only if a sum sufficient to maintain the company has met every other obligation and paid its return on a fair valuation. This would seem to mean that the city would get the tax, if there was no money to pay it, the city would lose the tax unless fares were raised to meet it.

The Board of Estimate and Apportionment, at a meeting today, took up the discussion. As usual in all the discussions affecting the franchise, the meeting was secret.

The other issue been raised by the Transit company. It desires a clause in the ordinance providing that, should any clause be declared illegal, other clauses shall not be affected and the ordinance shall continue in force. Obviously, the city replies, the clause or clauses which may be declared illegal, might be the ones that carry the compensatory benefits to the city.

City Would Specify Clauses.
Hence, it has declined the proposal, and suggests instead one that enumerates the clauses, which, if declared illegal, shall be construed as nullifying the ordinance as a whole. This has been the subject of recent discussions with the City Council.

It has been suggested that the delay in publication of the ordinance, overdue many weeks, has been because of the impending re-organization. Friends of the Mayor declare that, on the contrary, the Mayor is prodding negotiations in the hope of getting the ordinance into the open. It will have support, he feels, in quarters that would be influential upon a recall election.

It is probable that the decision on the franchise will not rest in the Board of Aldermen, but that the ordinance will be submitted, by initiative, to direct vote of the people.

ESCAPED FROM PRISON TO SEE ABOUT PAROLE

Illinois Convict, So Warden
Is Said to Have Testified, Left Note Explaining Departure.

SAID HE HAD PUT UP $600

Warden Tells of Prisoner
Who Gained Nothing by Honesty, but Won Freedom for $400.

CHICAGO, May 18.—The Chicago Tribune today published statements attributed to John L. Whitman, warden of the State penitentiary, in his testimony before the special grand jury here yesterday that it was common talk among prisoners that only money or political influence would get them out.

The warden was quoted as relating specific instances, in one of which a convict escaped over the prison wall, leaving a note stating that he had given $600 to a man who had promised to obtain a parole.

"I'm being double-crossed," he wrote. "I'm not getting out. I want to see the Governor and find out why my case was not considered. As soon as I do that I'm coming back."

And that man came back to prison, Warden Whitman said, and strangely enough, the convict was mistaken, for his case had been favorably passed upon by the Parole Board.

Raised $400, Paroled.
In another instance, the warden said, a convict told him that he had been honest during his incarceration but "played the game square," as he put it, but had found that it did him no good, so he raised $400. Soon thereafter the man was paroled, the warden said.

Warden Whitman was quoted as saying that Peter Klein, deputy warden, killed by seven escaping convicts on May 2, had once been discharged by former Warden Murphy. Whitman said he protested the man's reappointment. Discipline recently had broken down in the new prison, where Klein held sway, the warden said.

Warden Sighed.
Warden Whitman also was quoted as saying that the Parole Board ignored his presence and advice at its meetings, that he was never consulted as to the board's actions. Maj. M. A. Messlein, recently questioned by Attorney General Cullstrom and State's Attorney Crowe about his efforts in obtaining paroles for convicts, often was present at the board meetings and took an active part in questioning convicts, the warden was represented as saying.

The warden asserted that paroles had been issued "without relation or apparent regard to the character of the convict or the degree of his offense against society."

"Norge" Being Dismantled And Packed for Trip Home

Nobile's Account of Flight, Sent to Rome by Wireless, Cable, and Land Wire, Is Returned to Nome Same Way.

By the Associated Press.

NOME, Alaska, May 18.—Roald Amundsen showed signs of great perturbation when he learned an account of the flight of the Norge over the North Pole, written by Col. Umberto Nobile, had been published.

"There might be something in there I would want to deny," exclaimed Amundsen, commander of the expedition, as he pleaded vainly yesterday with the publishers of the Nome Nugget to let him read Nobile's narrative before its publication.

The account of Nobile, designer and constructor of the Norge and her first pilot on the flight was received by him to Benito Mussolini, Premier of Italy. Mussolini received the narrative in Rome and the Nugget received it through the Associated Press.

The Nugget, a four-page paper, which next to the News-Miner, at Fairbanks, Alaska, is the farthest north member of the Associated Press, did a record-breaking business yesterday afternoon.

Nearly everybody in Nome, seeing Amundsen at the Nugget office and noting signs of his displeasure as he left, hurried to the place at publication time. As fast as the press could turn off the papers they were snatched by purchasers.

"I am afraid the crowd was disappointed," remarked George S. Maynard, publisher of the Nugget. "I do not believe there was anything in the Nobile article, though it was certainly a good, interesting account of the Norge's wonderful exploit."

The dirigible Norge, the huge gas bag in which the explorers made their way from Spitzbergen to Teller, 75 miles from here, is being carefully packed for shipment out of Alaska by steamer when the ice-locked harbor thaws out.

Amundsen, Lincoln Ellsworth, Capt. Oscar Wisting and Lieut. Oskar Omdahl of the exploration party are occupying a cabin which they have christened to "Explorers' Club." Here they plan to remain until the next steamer leaves Nome, June 15.

An undersized fox terrier dog, which next to the pet of Nobile, was one passenger apparently happy to be on earth once more after its trip over the uncharted airways of the polar regions.

Two aviators, representing rival motion picture concerns, carried photographers from Fairbanks to Teller yesterday where they obtained views of the craft being dismantled.

ITALIANS RELEASE AMERICAN

John Roach Had Been Arrested on Honeycomb for Fighting
Carabiniers.

By the Associated Press.
ROME, May 18.—John Roach, an American citizen described as a ship captain, who since May 7 has been serving a 25-day sentence at Florence for fighting carabiniers, was pardoned by King Victor Emmanuel today.

Roach, on his honeymoon, went to the races at Florence in a cab. He engaged in an altercation with the driver when he thought he was being cheated. Mrs. Roach aided her husband in the fight, which started when the carabiniers intervened. Roach was arrested and was charged, as was John Adam Abbott in Rome recently, with the double accusation of assault and having insulted Mussolini.

After a preliminary hearing an accusation of insulting the Premier was thrown out, and Roach was held for assault and was sentenced to 25 days' imprisonment. His American address is not known.

MANILA, P. I., May 18.—The Philippines are being parched with heat and drouth. The temperature yesterday reached 100.8, which has been exceeded only twice since the American occupation began in 1898. A long period without rain has caused an acute shortage of fresh water, threatening serious consequences. Manila has been almost without rain for five months.

Out of Our Billions of Miles of Experience

Another YELLOW Triumph!

*This time a Billion mile tested, one-ton Truck
—with over-size Knight engine—trouble-proof*

Users of commercial vehicles have demanded such a truck—

A truck as good as the famous Yellow Cabs and Yellow Coaches.

A truck that would astonish the world with its unfailing reliability and low cost of upkeep, just as the Yellow passenger vehicles have astonished the world for the same reasons.

Here then is the answer—the Yellow-Knight "Money Maker." The same men who built the world-renowned Yellow Cabs and Coaches—who have mastered transportation costs out of billions of miles of experience—have engineered and produced this vehicle.

Now, for the first time in history, the amazing operating economy of Yellow-made vehicles is available to every one-ton truck user in America. The secret of this new achievement is the engine. It is specially designed. From the transportation viewpoint, Yellow experts have tested and tried every type of engine in existence.

And from this experience they have evolved the Yellow-Knight "Money Maker"—the first sleeve-valve motor ever specially constructed for commercial vehicles.

Thus, once again, the supreme ideal of Yellow efficiency has been attained. An engine has been created that will outstrip all former records among commercial vehicles, on an actual cost-per-mile basis.

Only an engine with entirely new features could accomplish that. A sleeve-valve engine—with the recognized sleeve-valve economy—and with bigger bearings, more rigid crankshaft, and greater endurance for the hard, unrelenting requirements of commercial use.

Expense items such as carbon removal, grinding and setting of valves, reboring of cylinders—have been wiped from the user's cost sheets forever.

Like every Yellow vehicle, this one is built to pay profits to its user—by a service without interruption, by a trouble proof motor that is virtually without ultimate wear-out, and by a maximum resale value at all times.

Literally, a triumph in the interest of lower transportation costs—with the financial and nationwide service backing of the gigantic General Motors Corporation.

See this new vehicle. Let us explain its money-saving advantages for you; and how you can obtain it under the liberal G. M. A. C. plan of deferred payments.

This booklet tells why the Yellow system now uses the Yellow-Knight sleeve-valve engine in its own revenue-producing vehicles. A booklet written by practical operators, for operators. Write for free copy. Yellow Truck & Coach Mfg. Co., 2001-4600 W. Dickens Ave., Chicago, Ill.

DEADLOCK OVER ANNEXATION IS STILL UNBROKEN

Constitutional Amendments May Be Submitted by Petition to Solve Difficulty.

ADJOURNMENT ON JUNE 3 PROPOSED

City and County Freeholders in Lively Meeting Blame Each Other for Disagreement.

The Board of Freeholders last night confirmed their deadlock, preventing submission to the people of any plan for the expansion of St. Louis. At the board's meeting the county members presented a statement opposing the city members' proposal for the complete merger of St. Louis and St. Louis County; the city group refused to compromise.

The board's official life will end in about two weeks. Three methods of attaining the result the board has failed to accomplish are possible:

Appointment of a new board to start all over again, upon petition of a few voters.

Circulation of petitions by annexationists to put the city scheme into effect by initiative amendment of the Constitution.

Circulation of petitions, on the suggestion of a county freeholder, to create a metropolitan area control without disturbing existing governments in the community, through initiative amendment of the Constitution.

If the year's work of this board has done nothing else, it has laid bare some of the problems of expansion and elicited facts on the subject.

The nine city freeholders are united in support of the merger of city and county. At least 10 members must sign any proposal to be submitted. When this one was brought out there was good reason to believe at least one and perhaps several of the nine county freeholders would sign it, thinking it would be defeated at the polls. Apparently some county freeholders became convinced that the plan, if submitted, might be adopted.

Gardner Blames City Members.

A. E. L. Gardner, a leader of county freeholders, who had been expected to sign the city plan, circulated the statement which he submitted last night on behalf of himself and six county colleagues. In it he said the county group would agree to a plan involving the return of the city into the county, which would permit annexation to be decided on by local action and "protect farm lands against confiscation." He gave a long list of reasons why the county members would not sign the city proposal and blamed the city freeholders for the failure of the board to formulate a plan.

Frank A. Thompson, who has just been operated on for appendicitis and Arthur W. Lashly, who has been out of town, are the county freeholders who did not sign the Gardner statement, although they sympathize with its purpose. Lashly said today he would sign the city proposal only if a majority of the county group signed, which is an impossibility. Gardner sought to adjourn the meeting, after presenting his statement, but was outvoted. A general discussion ensued.

Robert A. Roessel (county), recognizing the growth of a community of interest, submitted a plan for a metropolitan area to control such common problems as traffic and sewerage, and asked for its adoption. The board, he said, had two extremes—"One doesn't want anything done and the other wants whole hog or none."

County Member's Plan. Joseph C. McAtee (county) offered a motion for the circulation of initiative petitions to create a metropolitan area by constitutional amendment.

Prufrock-Litton's Nineteenth Anniversary Sale

NINETEEN years ago this month the firm Prufrock-Litton Company was established to sell dependable furniture at a fair price—to operate a store where home-makers could buy safely and economically. The name "Prufrock" was even then known to the furniture-buying public, as Wm. Prufrock began the manufacture of "parlor furniture" in North St. Louis in 1870—and today our upholstered furniture has a national reputation.

TODAY the greatest asset this firm has is the good will of countless friends—well merited by nineteen years of trust and service. And it seems fitting that our friends should participate in the celebration of our nineteen successful years. We know of no better way than by letting them share in our profits—and are therefore offering liberal reductions throughout our entire stock.

BOY PLAYING BALL KILLED BY STREET CAR

Walter Plaza, 8, Runs Onto Tracks in Front of Car at Fairmount City.

Attempting to retrieve a baseball with which he and other children were playing, Walter Plaza, 8 years old, of 3601 Maple avenue, Fairmount City, was run over and killed by a northbound interurban street car at Thirty-first street and Collinsville road, Fairmount City, at 8:15 p. m. yesterday.

The motorist, Mr. L. Caldwell, of Collinsville, said the child ran down an embankment and onto the car tracks about 15 feet in front of his car. He said he was unable to stop in time to avoid running over him. He was released on bond for the coroner.

The child's skull was crushed and both legs were severed. His father, Joseph Plaza, is proprietor of a poolroom in Fairmount City.

SAYS CLEVELAND SHERIFF GRAFTED ON PRISONERS' PIE

Grand Jury May Inquire Into Conditions at Jail; Official Denies Charges.

By the Associated Press.
CLEVELAND, O., May 18.—Because pie in jail costs more than pie outside, Cuyahoga County Common Pleas Judges will try to find out if Sheriff Fred Kohler of Cleveland has been profiteering in the sale of candy, pastry and tobacco to jail prisoners. Because Louis (Louie the Fleman) Sagors, former prisoner, says he was charged $1 a day rental for a cell used as a storeroom when he was the Sheriff's chief salesman, a grand jury inquiry may be made.

Chief Justice Powell said he would lay the matter before the Judges today. Judge Phillips said he would determine if a grand jury could investigate charges that bread, coffee and soup was all the prisoners got when the Sheriff is allowed 45 cents a day to feed
each man.

The Sheriff admits pie costs more in jail because of "handling expenses," but he denies he made anything like $30 to $40 a day profits, as alleged, or that his hungry prisoners bought five pieces of costly pie a day because jail fare was insufficient.

Sagors said he was the chief sales agent for the Sheriff for more than six months, and that when released he owed $45 back rent on his cell-store room. He sold 15-cent cigarettes for 20 cents; penny boxes of matches cost prisoners 10 cents for four;
chewing gum cost 10 cents and 33-cent pies were cut into six 10-cent portions.

Each day Sagors and his five assistants were charged with so many pies, so many cigarettes and so on, and every morning he had to account to a Deputy Sheriff for his sales and give him the money, Sagors said.

DEADLOCK OVER ANNEXATION IS STILL UNBROKEN

Continued from Preceding Page.
board's powers, but McAtee gave notice he would submit such a proposal in writing at the board's meeting next Monday. This is in opposition to the plan of the County Annexation League to seek a constitutional amendment putting the city merger proposal into effect.

McAtee inquired if city members would vote for some sort of proposal involving return of the city into the county. Leo S. Rasmussen and John P. Collins said they would not. Frederick W. Lehmann,
Mrs. Roscoe F. Anderson and J.
P. O. Reller said they would, conditionally. Caulfield said that Mc-Atee would advise the board of his proposal and McAtee said they could "get together" about that.

A resolution is pending to have the board adjourn sine die on June 2.

BUNN QUILTS CHAMBER OF COMMERCE POST

General Secretary for Last 9 Years to Enter Business in New York.

Paul V. Bunn, for the last nine years general secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, has resigned.

He will go on June 1 to New York to become president of the Ford Dealers' Mutual Finance Corporation, in which he will have a one-fourth interest. The company was organized by Charles C. Daniels, brother of former Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels.

"I am gratified," Bunn said today, "that I am going back to association with men who gave me my first employment in Wilson, N. C., where we three were raised."

Bunn came to St. Louis in 1914 to the Simmons Hardware Co., where he was employed in a general supervisory, efficiency capacity. His previous employment had been with the John Wanamaker store in New York. During the Roosevelt administration he was for five years entrusted with investigative missions for the President. He has collected within the last 20 years what has been appraised as the most complete collection in existence of books and documents touching the life of Roosevelt.

Castling back over his connection with the Chamber of Commerce, Bunn declares that the chamber has not been without its failures, but that "its batting average has been high." He cites 150 new industries for St. Louis in the last five years and prophesies further growth of the substantial, in contrast with the mushroom variety. "However," he added, "to function properly the Chamber of Commerce needs from $50,000 to $75,000 added annual budget."

SAYS NORTHERN PACIFIC WAS FAVORED IN LAND SELECTION

Former Employee Testifies Before Congressional Investigation About Exchanges Made.

WASHINGTON, May 18.—Government commissioners classifying land granted the Northern Pacific Railroad "usually knew in a general way what would be pleasing to the company," W. W. McElroy, a former railroad employee who accompanied them, told a congressional investigating commission. McElroy said yesterday he was detailed to go with the commissioners who in 1898-99 classified parts of the land grants as to mineral and nonmineral content, and that he understood he was to obtain as favorable a classification for railroad as possible. He explained that under the classification the Government re-captured mineral grants in exchange for equal acreage of non-mineral land and that the company primarily was interested in obtaining timberlands in the exchange. He testified the commissioners "favored" the railroad "some."

McElroy could not say whether the commissioners advised of the company's wishes, but added that the classifications made was what the Northern Pacific wanted. The commission is investigating land grants to the company and its successor, the Northern Pacific Railway Co.

DRUNKEN MAN CAUGHT WHEN WOMAN HE ATTACKS SCREAMS

Prisoner Giving Name of Chauncey Gavin Held on Complaint of Mrs. Carrie Thornton.

Attracted by the screams of a woman, two policemen ran to St. Louis and Vandeventer avenues at 5 a. m. today, where they found Mrs. Carrie Thornton, 23 years old, a telephone operator, of 5072A Delmar boulevard, struggling with a man. They overpowered the man, who at the city hospital was pronounced suffering with acute alcoholism. Mrs. Thornton was treated for cuts and bruises of the face and head and taken to her home. Her clothing was torn.

Mrs. Thornton said she attended a party in her honor at 4226 Olive street, given by friends because she planned to join her husband, Victor, in Chicago today. She was waiting for a street car at 4 a. m. at Whittier street, she said, when the man jumped from a coupe and dragged her into it, after beating her with his fists and tearing her clothes, she declared, he drove to St. Louis and Vandeventer, where she jumped out. He followed her and had seized her again, she said, when the policemen arrived.

No attempt was made to question the prisoner, who gave his name as Chauncey Gavin, 29, a bricklayer, living at 4161 St. Louis avenue, near where the arrest was made. He lapsed into a stupor in the patrol.

TELLS OF WORK DONE BY ELECTRICITY IN U. S.

Speaker at Atlantic City Convention Says Energy Equals That of 170,000,000 Men

By the Associated Press. ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., May 18.—"Electric motors in the United States are doing as much work every day as could be accomplished by 170,000,000 men, or four times the 45,000,000 men and women of this country who are engaged in gainful occupations." This statement was made by J. E. Davidson of Omaha, president of the National Electric Light Association today, at the first session of the five-day convention of the organization. He attributed to this fact a large part of the present position of the United States among nations with respect to national wealth and commercial and industrial supremacy. He stated that every worker has an average of more than four horse-power at his command, 75 per cent of this power in industry being electrical.

Task Uncompleted. Speaking of what has been accomplished in the past and what remains to be done in the future, he said: "We are still young in the electric industry and our task is not nearly finished. We are again that are going to waste; we can increase the yield of agriculture, we can lift some of the load from human backs." More than ten million homes are not wired for electrical service; a large part of American industry remains to be electrified; only 10 per cent of the farms of the country have electric service and less than 2 per cent of the railroad mileage is electrified, he pointed out.

Against Public Ownership. R. H. Ballard of Los Angeles, a former president of the association, speaking of Government ownership, said: "There have been proposals for Government housing, Government telephones, Government mines, Government oil fields, Government forests, Government banks, Government manufacturing and many others; almost everything in fact, except the notion that the country should own all the farms of the country."

"The farmer is perhaps left out of the picture, so that there may be some one on the outside on whom additional taxes can be loaded to offset deficits in Government revenue which would be caused by the issuance of an enormous volume of tax exempt securities for these Socialistic schemes. We as an industry are against this sort of thing on principle." He declared "If all business men in the land were thoroughly imbued with the fundamental principle that Government ownership in any field is wrong, is Socialistic, destroys democracy, brings an oligarchy into political power, then no local business men will back any scheme, however appealing in its local aspects, that violates the principle."

WOMAN CHAUFFEUR OF MURDER CAR IN CHICAGO GANG KILLING

Officer of Motion Picture Machine Operators' Union Shot Down at Street Corner.

By the Associated Press. CHICAGO, May 18.—A killing that police attribute to warfare between beer runners or to a gang feud was recorded last night when Thomas Dere, 45 years old, officer of a motion picture machine operators' union, was shot and killed by a man who had for his chauffeur a pretty woman.

Dere was standing on a South Side street corner when a car driven by the woman drew abreast and from it stepped a man with a drawn pistol. He fired several shots into Dere's body, climbed back into the car and his companion sped away. Dere tried to return the fire but was unsuccessful.

Woman Auto Driver Injured. Miss Gertrude Williams of 509 St. Louis avenue, East St. Louis, driving west on State street, at Fifty-fourth street, yesterday, was crowded to the curb against a telephone pole by a car occupied by three men. Her machine was badly damaged, and she suffered bruises and cuts of the face and right leg.

LEMON JUICE WHITENS THE SKIN

The only harmless way to bleach the skin white is to mix the juice of two lemons with three ounces of Orchard White, which any drug-gist will supply for a few cents. Shake well in a bottle, and you have a whole quarter-pint of the most wonderful skin whitener, softener and beautifier.

Massage this sweetly fragrant lemon bleach into the face, neck, arms and hands. It cannot irritate. Famous stage beauties use it to bring that clear, youthful skin and rosy-white complexion; also as a freckle, sunburn and tan bleach. You must mix this remarkable lotion yourself. It cannot be bought ready to use because it acts best immediately after it is prepared.

CAPT. BOY-ED DENIED

ADMISSION TO U. S.

State Department Said to Hold His War Activities Were Too Recent.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, May 18.—Captain Karl Boy-Ed is said to have been refused a visa to enter the United States. The passport bureau of the State Department is declared to regard the time too short since his war activities as naval attaché of the German embassy at Washington, to permit him to re-enter the country. He was recalled by Germany at the request of the State Department in 1915.

Boy-Ed married a Washington girl, Miss Virginia Mackey-Smith, daughter of Bishop Mackey-Smith. The Boy-Eds are living at Partenkirchen, Bavaria. Mrs. Boy-Ed has visited her relatives in the United States. The Captain would like to live in America.

Through a queer chance Boy-Ed and Miss Mackey-Smith were not married until after the war. Just before he left the United States, Boy-Ed called Admiral Von Tirpitz, then Minister of the German navy, for permission to marry the young lady and bring her to Germany. The reply was sent:

"You may marry, Tirpitz." It was learned long afterwards that the American secret service held up the dispatch, believing it to be code. Boy-Ed sailed without receiving it. After the war, Miss Mackey-Smith came to Europe with her mother and the wedding took place on this side.

Expulsion of Boy-Ed and Von Papen Recalled.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 18.—The Berlin Embassy did not consult the State Department as to whether it should give the passport for Capt. Boy-Ed.

Should the question be referred by the Embassy, and should the department formally refuse a visa it will in all probability publish the full facts in the case in order that the public may know the grounds for the refusal. This decision is the result of criticism growing out of the Karolyi and Baklatyala cases in which requests for passports were denied.

The dismissal from Washington of Capt. Boy-Ed and Capt. Franz von Papen, who was military attaché of the German Embassy, was one of the dramatic episodes leading up to the entry of the United States into the world war. Withdrawal of the two attaches was requested by the State Department on account of what the Government considers improper activities in military and naval matters.

While the case against them was not regarded by Secretary Lansing as capable of legal proof, it consisted of an accumulation of charges connecting them with attempts to supply German raiders with coal, provisions and munitions and violate the American neutrality laws in various ways.

SENATOR DEFENDS SEARCH CLAUSE OF NEW DRY BILL

Means of Colorado Says It Is Aimed at Dwellings Used for Making Liquor for Market.

WETS PLAN SERIES OF AMENDMENTS

They Predict Measure Will Not Pass—House Votes $8,000,000 for New Coast Guard Cutters.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 18.—The Senate today renewed the debate on the new dry bill, which the Senate passed last week.

Senator Means, of Colorado, defended the search clause of the bill, which would allow the government to search for liquor in any building.

Means said the bill was aimed at the liquor traffic, and that it was necessary to search for liquor in any building.

LONDON, May 18.—India's only woman ruler, Her Highness the Begum of Bhopal, has abdicated in favor of her son, Nawab Zada Hamidulla.

For a long time she had contended for the Islamic right to name her successor, who, under ordinary procedure, should have been the son of her deceased husband.

JONKHEER LONDON CHOSEN HEAD OF ARMS MEETING

Ex-Foreign Minister of Holland Elected by Delegates of 20 Nations at Preparatory Conference.

EXPERTS TO STUDY TECHNICAL PROBLEMS

Germany, It Is Reported, Will Seek Waiver of Military Clauses of Peace Treaty.

By the Associated Press.

GENEVA, Switzerland, May 18.—The preparatory commission on disarmament, called to arrange the agenda for an eventual international disarmament conference, held its first meeting today.

Delegates of 20 nations, including the United States, participated.

Jonkheer J. Loudon, former Foreign Minister of the Netherlands, was elected president.

Paul Boncour, of France, was nominated by Lord Cecil and warmly supported by the spokesmen of a dozen other countries.

He declined the honor, believing the presidency should go to the representative of a nation less vitally interested in disarmament than France.

The preparatory commission, at a private session, today took steps to prevent the conference from becoming a purely League of Nations affair.

With a view to meeting the American attitude toward the conference, Viscount Cecil, British delegate, moved that two subcommittees of the commission be appointed, to which all states are entitled to name representatives.

One of these committees will handle military, naval and air problems, and the other will handle the economic problem.

The original plan of the League Council was to turn over details of disarmament studies to League of Nations committees.

Such as the non-League countries, such as the United States, would be entitled to send representatives.

The United States informed the League that when it accepted the invitation to the conference, it did not accept any plan which would take matters out of the hands of the preparatory commission.

Today's action emphasizes the sovereign character of the commission and that when the commission is not in session, its problems will be in the hands of its own subcommittee.

Problem of Conference. The problem of reducing armaments on land and sea, and in the air, before an international conference which met under the auspices of the League of Nations.

American delegation is collaborating. After the commission has concluded its labors, the technical problems will be given to experts for study.

It is probable the commission will not meet again until after the September session of the Assembly of the League.

Hugh S. Gibson, Minister to Switzerland, is chairman of the American delegation. Count von Bernstorff, former German Ambassador to the United States, represents his country.

It is asserted in some quarters that during the conference Count von Bernstorff will request that the German be permitted to waive the military restrictions of the treaty of Versailles and be allowed armaments such as her position warrants, providing her neighbors, particularly France, refuse to decrease their armaments so that they will be reasonably proportionate to those of Germany.

BONES OF TROTTER HORSE PLACED IN EVOLUTION EXHIBIT

Lee Axworthy's Skeleton in New York Museum Group for Comparison With Eohippus.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, May 18.—The skeleton of the world-famous trotting champion, Lee Axworthy, took place along with fossils of the four-toed and three-toed horses of former ages when the new horse alcove was opened in the American Museum of Natural History yesterday.

The skeleton has been mounted to show a phase of the horse's evolution at a fast trot.

The Lee Axworthy skeleton now forms a group illustrating the evolution of the horse from the fox-sized eohippus to the draft horse and race horse of the present.

With him also are the Arabian stallion Nimer and the American thoroughbred Syonaby.

NUNCIO DUSTED FROM MEXICO TO PUBLISH EXPERIENCES

Archbishop Carranza Arrives at Laredo, Tex., on His Way to Washington.

By the Associated Press.

LAREDO, Tex., May 18.—Archbishop George J. Carranza, papal nuncio, expelled from Mexico for alleged illegal entry into the country, arrived here today on his way to Washington.

He said he would prepare a statement of his experiences for newspaper publication.

Archbishop's Companion Denies They Entered Through Juarez.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 18.—The charge of improper entry made by the Mexican Government as a basis for its expulsion of Archbishop George J. Carranza, apostolic delegate, was denied here today by the Rev. R. McGowan of the National Catholic Welfare Conference.

McGowan declared he entered Mexico with the Archbishop "and sat three or four feet from him when his passport and vaccination certificate were examined and when he was asked the supposedly customary questions."

He denied charges that the delegate entered Mexico by way of Juarez and made false declarations concerning his profession and religion.

Rev. McGowan said they entered Mexico through Nuevo Laredo. "Neither of us was asked our religion," he declared.

"Both of us were asked our occupation. We gave the occupation of teacher, which both of us exercise. Neither of us was asked the purpose of our visit."

He said he and the Archbishop arrived in Mexico City immediately, and he in three or four days, made known the respective purposes of our visit.

RAIN AIDS FIRE FIGHTERS IN FORESTS OF ONTARIO

Men Are Carried to Various Canadian Points in Seaplanes; Trains Halted by Heat.

By the Associated Press.

WINNIPEG, Man., May 18.—Airplanes and seaplanes are being used to transport fire fighters to districts in Northern Ontario, and Manitoba, which have been swept by forest fires since yesterday.

Rain today brought relief to the forest which has been fighting the fire since the districts north of this city. Dangerous fires, however, were still raging in Northern Ontario along the north shore of Lake Superior, near Port Arthur and Fort William.

Lumber companies in Ontario have full forces out, and airplanes on the forest patrol are carrying men and fire-fighting equipment to the affected areas.

Officials of the dominion forest patrol reported that there were 47 separate fires in the province, and that most of them had been mastered by the speedy arrival of seaplanes, which carried fire fighters from one danger point to another.

FULL-SIZE PAPERS REAPPEAR, BRITAIN IS NORMAL AGAIN

General Strike Hardly Mentioned Except Humorously—Wildest Rumor Contrasted.

COST OF WALKOUT PUT AT $3,637,500

Interest Centers on Settlement of Coal Dispute—Mine Owners More Balky Than Workers.

By JOHN L. BALDERSTON.

LONDON Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

LONDON, May 18.—Full size evening newspapers have reappeared on the streets. The city is normal for the first time since the general strike was called.

The dock workers remain on strike at Manchester and no settlement has been reached at Cardiff, but industrial peace has been restored generally and the first regular newspapers, issued yesterday, show an unanimous desire to fulfill Premier Baldwin's plea for conciliation.

Many papers deal only with the humorous aspects of the strike. The Sketch offering prizes for the wildest rumors heard by its readers during the newspaperless days—tales of mutinies, battles, bombardments, the flight of the King and Queen to America, the abdication of the King in favor of the Prince of Wales, and the assassination of the Prince.

Owners More Balky Than Men. The coal miners' executives having discussed the Government plan for a settlement, will meet Premier Baldwin today. It already is clear that the mine owners are more likely to block a settlement than are the miners.

The owners object particularly to the proposed legislation drastically to reorganize the coal industry, and to the allotment of the whole proceeds for the first quarter of the present year to wages for the men, provided the mine accept a slight reduction.

The reduction would not apply to any wage less than 45 shillings ($11.25) a week. The cut would probably be 5 per cent at the start.

The strike cost the Government about $750,000 (about $3,637,500). Winston Churchill told the House of Commons yesterday.

He said he did not think further taxation would be necessary to cover this amount. Increased revenue from customs during the strike would partly offset the cost, he explained.

All the papers remark that the return of the post should to paralyse the country. The manner in which the country stood up under the strike.

Strike Hardly Mentioned. The Tory Morning Post and the Labor organ, Daily Herald, scarcely mention the strike today. The Herald, in its first issue in a fortnight, ignores the subject and concentrates on the alleged refusal of the mine owners to accept the Government's plan for a coal peace.

Many Scotland Yard and military intelligence tales are told in the clubs. One of the most amusing deals with the disappearance of the militant and armed fascists during the strike.

They were carefully mobilized by Scotland Yard and put to work in remote shops on the verge of national importance. They repaired large numbers of lorries and busses. They worked on these for days, not knowing that the authorities had first carefully reviewed certain essential parts that could not be found.

Communists also were treated tactfully, many hundreds being rounded up on all sorts of trumped-up charges and released later with apologies.

Mme. Lambrino applied to the court to have Mircea registered as the child of Prince Carol.

Another party numbering 360 is reported to have been surrounded in a ravine by tribesmen and all captured or killed.

ELECTRIC PROSPECTING DEVICE DISCOVERS GOLD IN SWEDEN

Ore Bodies Found Even Through Ice and Under Glacial Drift.

By the Associated Press.

STOCKHOLM, May 18.—New gold deposits which in content are classed by Dr. Axel Gavelin, head of Sweden's geological survey as fourth in the entire world, have been discovered by electrical prospecting methods developed by Hans Lundberg and Karl Sundberg, mining engineers, at Bolden, in the province of Vasterbotten, not far south of the Arctic circle.

Although 34 ore bodies have been found in the region, all covered by glacial drift, swamps or lakes. One deposit was traced through the ice at the bottom of a lake 30 feet down. Besides gold these ore bodies contain copper, silver, arsenic, sulphur and pyrites.

The deposits are declared to be the richest in the world and the sulphur, it is said, will make the Swedish pulp mills independent of the imports of this chemical.

All mining concessions have been awarded by the Government to a Swedish company.

WET ISSUE BEFORE PENNSYLVANIA IN PRIMARY TODAY

Republicans Torn by Factions—Outcome of Senatorial Contest May Determine State Leadership.

VARE FOR CHANGE IN VOLSTEAD LAW

Pinchot Is Extreme Dry and He Says Pepper, Who Favors No Change, Is "Damp."

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, May 18.—One of the greatest political battles in the history of Pennsylvania is being fought at the polls today.

Upon the decision of the voters at the State-wide primary election rests not only their selection of candidates for United States Senator, Governor, Congress and other offices, but some politicians thought that with victory in the three-cornered Republican senatorial race would go the leadership of the party in the state.

Not since the death of Senator Penrose, five years ago, brought his leadership to an end, has the Republican party been so rent by factional differences.

Opponents in the Republican senatorial race are Senator George Wharton Pepper, in whose interest two members of President Coolidge's Cabinet, Secretaries Mellon and Davis, spoke during the campaign; Congressman William E. Vare, leader of the Philadelphia Republican organization, who conducted his campaign on a "wet" platform; and Gov. Gifford Pinchot, bone-dry candidate.

Vare has been the leader in asserting that modification of the Volstead law was the principal issue of the campaign. Vare maintained that if he were victorious a Republican Congress in 1927 would follow to listen to lead in "rotting down Volsteadism and demanding beer and wine."

Should Pennsylvania, with its 11,000,000 people, "make that gesture," he declared, the Republican party would have to listen.

Senator Pepper said Vare was using the liquor issue as a smoke screen in an effort to obtain control of the State organization. The Senator announced that he was for law enforcement and no change in the Federal law.

Gov. Pinchot told the voters there were only two great issues at stake in the fight. "One," he said, "is the wet and dry issue, the other is the gang and anti-gang issue."

"On the first, we have a wet candidate, Vare. You have a dry candidate, Pinchot. Then you have a third candidate who is neither wet nor dry, but just damp, and that is Pepper."

Governorship Fight. For the gubernatorial nomination, the Pepper-Mellon forces supported John E. Fisher, former State Banking Commissioner, while Vare backed Edward E. Biddleman, former Lieutenant Governor. Former Governor John K. Tener and Representative Thomas W. Phillips are also candidates for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, both having made the race independently.

There is a lively contest for the Democratic nomination for Governor, the candidates being Judge Samuel E. Shull, Monroe County; Judge Eugene C. Donnell, Philadelphia, and Former Judge William E. Porter, Lawrence County.

$15,000,000 SOUGHT FOR AGED PASTORS' AID

Plan of Presbyterian Council to Obtain Fund Outlined at Meeting Here.

The plan to raise $15,000,000 for aged ministers of the Presbyterian Church was outlined at a gathering of local laymen yesterday at a luncheon at Hotel

Harbor by George G. Harber of New York, a member of the Presbyterian General Council.

Harber announced that Will H. Hays, "supreme arbiter of the movies," is having public accountants list his assets so that he would give one-tenth of his property to the church. Hays is chairman of the Laymen's Committee engaged in raising the pension fund.

In New York yesterday Hays declined to discuss Harber's announcement. However, it was learned that he had talked of the matter with Andrew W. Mellon, treasurer of the committee.

The $15,000,000 is to be raised through an appeal to individuals rather than by an organized campaign in the channels of the church. The fund will provide pensions for all full-time workers in the church, including pastors, associate pastors, missionaries, apocryphal evangelists and chaplains, upon their reaching the age of 65. Retirement, however, during the past year, Harber stated, $790,000 in pensions was paid out by the church to the 1900 persons on the rolls.

A disability pension amounting to 40 per cent of the salary during the 5 years prior to disability with a minimum of $600 will be paid to those compelled to cease active service before the age of 65. A widow's payment of one-half her husband's pension, with a minimum of $300, and an orphan's pension of $100 for each minor up to the age of 21 years, are also provided. The plan should be self-maintaining within 15 years.

The Rev. Reid S. Dickson, of Philadelphia, assistant secretary of the Board of Ministerial Relief and Maintenance, who is touring the middle-west with Harber, told of the work being done to get the churches, ministers and laymen interested in the pension project.

George D. Markham, an insurance man, of 481 Pershing avenue, was elected to direct the campaign in St. Louis. A. L. Shapleigh presided at the meeting.

APPEAL DECISION RESERVED IN SUIT FOR TEAPOT DOME

Government Counsel Renew Charges of Fraud in Transfer of Naval Oil Reserve to Sinclair Interests.

CHARGE CASE WAS FORCED TO TRIAL

Federal Judge Kennedy of Wyoming Alleged to Have Had "Slant of Mind Against Government."

By the Associated Press.
ST. PAUL, May 18.—The Government's request for annulment of the famous Teapot Dome oil lease to the Sinclair interests was taken under advisement here yesterday by three Federal Judges. It was not indicated when a decision might be expected. Reversal of Federal Judge T. Blake Kennedy's dismissal of the suit in Cheyenne, Wyo., last June declaring no fraud or irregularity had been shown, is sought.

The Government charged Judge
Kennedy had "started out with a slant of mind against the Government" and that he forced the suit to trial before the Government had rounded up all its important evidence.

Actions of Albert B. Fall, then
Secretary of the Interior, Harry
F. Sinclair and other principals during the lease negotiations
"plainly constitute badges of fraud," on the whole deal, it was charged by Owen J. Roberts of Philadelphia, special government counsel.

Defend Sinclair Action.
To this Martin W. Littleton of
New York, counsel for the Sinclair interests, answered that not a scin-tilla of evidence had been produced by the Government "showing any fraud or impeaching the honesty of Harry F. Sinclair."

Littleton asserted the Government officials who took part in the leasing were honestly doing their best to serve the country, and that Sinclair simply was helping them do this service. Senator Allen Pomerene of Ohio, chief counsel for the Government, replied that
"the oil reserve of the navy became the oil preserve of Sinclair."

Former Judge John W. Lacey of Cheyenne, of Sinclair's counsel, joined Littleton in arguing that the lease "was entirely legal and legitimate" and contended dismissal of the Government's suit by Judge Kennedy should be upheld.

Liberty Bond Deal.
Roberts had argued that the lease was absolutely illegal "and contrary to Federal statutes, and usurps power which Congress alone has the right to exercise."

"We are blocked from showing the whole truth in our former case at every possible turn," Roberts said. "Milton Everhart, Fall's son-in-law, who delivered a fortune in Liberty bonds to Fall after the lease was made, was upheld by Judge Kennedy in refusing to answer our questions."

Pomerene said H. S. Osler, a Canadian, alleged by the Government to have been the medium for collecting the Liberty bonds, went on a hunting trip to Africa during attempts of the Government to force him to testify.

Attorneys Clash.
A clash between Pomerene and Littleton marked the afternoon session, when Sinclair's counsel stated the Government had announced that R. W. Stewart of the Standard Oil Co. was under suppoena at Cheyenne, but he was not summoned to testify.

Pomerene said that through a misunderstanding he was not at hand. When a suppoena again was sent to Chicago for him, Stewart went to Mexico, Pomerene said, adding that Stewart owns a half interest in the Sinclair Oil Co.

Judge William S. Kenyon presided at today's hearing, and sitting with him were Judges Arba
S. Vaikenburgh and William A.
Cant.

PUBLIC BUILDINGS BILL IS SENT TO PRESIDENT

House Approves Conference Report on $165,000,000 Measure Approved by Senate.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, May 18.—Congress today completed its approval of the $165,000,000 Public Buildings bill, under which new Federal buildings are to be erected in many cities.

The conference report, already approved by the Senate, was accepted by the House and the bill was sent along to President Coolidge, who generally is expected to sign it.

Except for certain buildings in the Capital, the bill does not specify in what cities the new structures are to be erected. The Treasury Department will distribute the funds, but must have the approval of Congress for the allocations made.

SAFETY COUNCIL BLAMES MOTORISTS FOR ACCIDENTS

Only Two Out of 60 Killed This Year Met Death at Railroad Crossings.

The St. Louis Safety Council, in a statement today, declared that almost two-thirds of the automobile accidents in St. Louis each year occur at street intersections.
Of about 60 persons who were killed in automobile accidents from Jan. 1 to May 1, 35 were killed at intersections, and two at railroad crossings within the city.
"While there is no attempt to shift the blame entirely on the shoulder of the motorist," the council says, "figures show that in 25 of the cases the coroner's jury held that the motorist was at fault."

Flathead Indians Get $50 Each.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, May 18.—The Interior Department today announced authorization of a per capita payment of $50 to the Flathead tribe of Indians of Montana, making a total distribution of $128,850, with 2357 benefiting. The funds were realized from timber sales and will be disbursed through the Dixon (Mont.) headquarters.

Woman Held for Observation.

An unidentified woman, who says she knows who she is but refuses to tell, is being held for observation at city hospital. Detecdering on McKinley Bridge. She refused to explain her actions. The woman is about 45 years old, 5 feet 6 inches in height, and weighs 135 pounds. She was wearing a black straw hat with a red band,

a brown coat, cream-colored stockings, a tan dress and black shoes.

Of the five biggest selling cigarettes in America, the ONLY one of its type!

IT MAY WELL PROVE the "only" cigarette for your taste, too:

If you prefer something "out of the ordinary," instead of following the crowd (for this cigarette is distinctly different from the other big brands);

If as yet you have never tasted a "Virginia tobacco" cigarette (and without this agreeable experience no man's cigarette knowledge is complete);

If you once knew but have half-forgotten its mild sweetness, its zest and sparkle, and now would like to enjoy them anew.

In fact, the remarkable record of this big brand and the reasons behind it should interest all men who care enough for their smokes to think twice about them.

OF THE five leading cigarettes in the United States today, four are "Turkish Blends"—that is, blends of Turkish and American tobaccos. Each is distinctive, of course—in proportioning of tobaccos and in taste—but each contains at least some measure of Turkish blended in with its Domestic tobaccos. The fifth, the one big exception, is a cigarette made solely from the golden leaf known as "Virginia tobacco."

Piedmont, of course—we hardly need to name it. Ranking today among the top four in sales, it has been steadily among the leaders for twenty-five consecutive years—more than the whole life of any other "big" brand.

The one big exception!

Now, if it takes a corking good cigarette of any type, as it certainly does, to sell several billion a year, it surely must take a "regular humdinger" to win sales against the mighty current of popular taste.

And that is exactly what Piedmont has done. For in the last 10 or 15 years this country as a whole has turned noticeably toward the "Turkish Blend" type of cigarette—yet against four to one odds, Piedmont has actually held its place among the leaders, year after year.

Apparently in every new generation of smokers there are men, and a goodly number of them, to whom something "out of the ordinary" has a real appeal. Herbert Spencer said: "the minority is always right;" and at any rate these smokers who have left the crowded road to take a path of their own choosing must have found it pleasant—for they do stick to Piedmonts without end.

What lies behind this unique record?

But it is the different taste of Piedmonts that really counts.

It must be a matter of taste difference, for you will find Piedmont in the cigarette cases of prosperous New York and Chicago brokers, and in the pockets of workmen, who from their limited tobacco money must extract the last ounce of pleasure; you will find it the favorite among old tobacco men in the South, trained to match one leaf against another; and you will find it ever popular, on either coast, with men who follow the sea. Probably no other cigarette is smoked by more diverse types of people.

And this is important—for it means that Piedmont is chosen, not because "everybody's doing it," but for itself—because it possesses a genuine tobacco difference which any smoker of any class can recognize.

A genuine difference—tobacco sweetness!

The explanation of Piedmont's record, then, is simple. Virginia tobacco is different from other tobaccos, always has been, and always will be—and Piedmont is made of first-quality "bright" Virginia tobacco, and nothing else.

And if you like mildness and unmixed purity of flavor, if you like that indescribable thing which we call "natural tobacco sweetness," you'll like Virginia tobacco—and you'll get it at its best in Piedmont.

Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

Probably no other cigarette is smoked by more diverse types of people.

No man can claim cigarette knowledge until he has smoked a "Virginia tobacco" cigarette.

Just what IS this Virginia tobacco?

It is a distinct type of tobacco grown in certain favored sections of four States—Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, and Georgia. The golden or "bright" Virginia used in Piedmont is a direct descendant of the first tobacco known to civilized man. Cultivated and improved for over three hundred years, its mild sweetness and purity of taste, not equalled by any other tobacco grown, have won world-wide prestige. It is truly the aristocrat of cigarette tobaccos.

Sports Editor of the Boston Herald. BOSTON, May 18.—After three days of rain, the Browns and Red Sox got together this afternoon for their only game of the series.

It was the best day so far this year and about 4000 fans were on hand when play was called.

Sisker was at his regular position and Gene Robertson and Wally Gerber appeared in the infield.

BASEBALL MAY AGAIN BECOME MAJOR SPORT IN MISSOURI VALLEY

Washington University's sport schedule may again have variety and make it a major sport, according to Dr. Bill Edmunds, athletic director. Edmunds, who leaves for the spring conference at Missouri Valley athletic officials at Lincoln, Neb., this week-end, declared that if the sentiment at conference of the diamond sport, Washington University would also enter a team in the 1927 Missouri Valley Conference race.

"One of the things which bothered us this year," stated Edmunds, "and made us cramp our program was the fact that the interest on our new field house had to be paid before we were able to start our new program. We were well able to meet the interest and we can allow ourselves a greater degree of financial freedom. The big thing we're after is the stadium."

Huntzinger or Haines to Hurl For Cards Today

Hornsby's Men Score 33 Runs on 44 Hits in 3 Victories Over Boston.

By J. Roy Stockton.

Pittsburg, New York and the Cardinals co-operated to make the National League pennant race a bit tighter yesterday afternoon. The Pirates reached the .500 mark by taking the measure of the Brooklyn Dodgers, 7 to 6, in 12 innings; the Giants took a fall out of the league-leading Reds and the Cardinals climbed nearer to the leaders by landing another knockout wallop on the chin of the groggy Boston Braves.

The world's champions, still trailing in the first division, are only a game ahead of the Cardinals, who have won 13 and lost 17 games. Cincinnati still has a lead of a game and a half over the Dodgers but their margin of five games over the fourth-place Pirates and six games over the Cardinals is not an alarming advantage at this stage of the pennant race.

Batting Wins for Sherdel.
Hornsby's men appear to have found themselves in the Boston series. The pitching staff is not yet steady. Rhee and Keen appear to be all set for a great season, but Bill Sherdel, the leader of the corps last year, has not yet struck his stride. Bill won yesterday, but he would have been forced to retire had it not been for a commanding lead that the Cards piled up in the early innings at the expense of the Boston pitchers.

While it is true that Hornsby and his men have faced poor pitching in the three victories over the Braves, it remains a fact that the team has pounded out 44 hits and scored 33 runs in the three games, an average of 11 runs and more than 14 hits every eight innings. This is impressive batting, even if Dave Bancroft's pitching staff is in the doldrums.

Bell and Mueller Pound Ball.
The pleasing feature of the batting rampage has been the hitting of Lester Bell and Heine Mueller. After being helpless for half a dozen games, Mueller has been banging the ball. Saturday he hit a home run and a single, Sunday a single and yesterday he had a real afternoon with a home run and two singles, out of four chances. Bell has developed into the team's big punch. He made seven hits in the three games, including a home run, a triple and a double.

Bell is the type of ballplayer who should improve steadily. His hitting is not yet steady. He still plays hoppers on the wrong hop, but he atones for this by turning in brilliant stops and throws. Yesterday he contributed the best bit of his fielding of the series and the best stop that a third baseman has made here this year. He raced over behind third during a vicious Boston batting rally, made a back-handed stop of a smash from Jacobson's bat and then rifled a throw to first, ending the rally and nullifying a run that a Boston Brave was trying to carry over the plate.

It was a brilliant stop, and the throw was just as good. The stands roared their applause. They're with Lester Bell now. He has shown that he has the heart.

Bottomley Hits No. 7.
The Cardinals won the game in the early innings. They pumped on Larry Benton for two runs in the first, two in the second and three in the sixth inning, collecting the pitcher's six innings on the hill. They scored another run off Rosie Ryan. Bottomley connecting for his seventh homer of the season. Hearn pitched the eighth, and gave only one hit, bringing the Cards' total to 14 safeties for the day.

Sherdel weakened in the seventh and was pounded for two runs and for three in the eighth. He was being lambasted so heartily in the two innings that the fans were trying to take over the managerial reins. But Hornsby declined to give up his rights, and kept Bill there. It was just as well, thanks

Loayza and McGraw Fight 10-Round Draw

Sell-Out Crowd Attends Benefit Boxing Show at Madison Square Garden.

By Hype Igoo.

NEW YORK, May 18.—The Catholic Big Sisters of Brooklyn benefit show went over with a bang the greatest success New York first its doors were opened.

A sell-out crowd saw Phil McGraw and Stanislaus Loayza go 10 rounds to a draw in battle that brought your heart right up to your mouth.

They saw Frankie Genaro and Bushy Graham go 10 rounds, Graham getting the decision, and they saw Ruby Goldstein break up the show by stopping Tony Vaccarella after one minute and eight seconds of his feet.

How that kid did fight, and after Tony had been dropped twice in the fifth and once in the last, Parsy Haley had to stop it to save Tony's feelings and absolutely helpless on his feet.

The Loayza and McGraw bout was so close that the three officials disagreed on the verdict. Flynn, a judge, called it a draw. Partick, a judge, called it a victory for Loayza, and Haley, the referee, said McGraw. They announced the profits of the show would go to $30,000, a gate of $70,000, with $20,000 added through contributions and sale of programs.

Million Dollar Offer to Dempsey For Wills Bout

No Confirmation Received From Champion's Camp.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, May 18.—No serious developments were noted today following the announcement late yesterday by Promoter Tom O'Rourke that he would offer Jack Dempsey $1,000,000 to defend his heavyweight boxing championship against Harry Wills next September or October.

Dempsey has not been heard from, after affirming or denying that he has received the reported offer. O'Rourke declines to give the names of the persons composing the million dollar syndicate and, withal, there is little excitement in any direction.

O'Rourke declared that $250,000 of this sum would be posted in Dempsey's name with any holding agent as soon as the champion signed articles to meet the Negro challenger and be forfeited in case the fight failed to come off.

The remainder, he said, would be posted 48 hours before the fight. In addition, Dempsey would be guaranteed 50 per cent of all gate receipts in excess of $200,000.

"Dempsey set his figure at $750,000 when I first asked him for his terms for a match with Wills," said O'Rourke. "He failed to give me a definite answer on that and later, when I raised it to $300,000, he again evaded me. Now I'm offering him the biggest purse ever proposed for a fight."

To suggestions that Rickard's contract with Dempsey would prevent the champion from entering any other negotiations for a bout this year, O'Rourke replied that he considered the titleholder free to accept a better proposition.

FRISCO EARNINGS FOR 1925

INCREASED 18.8 PER CENT

Annual Report Shows Net Income of $7,162,532; Passenger Traffic Hurt by Hard Roads.

Net income for 1925 of $7,162,532, an increase of 18.8 per cent over 1924, is shown in the annual report of the St. Louis-San Francisco Railway Co., made public tonight.

Operating revenues last year were $94,715,374.71, an increase of 4.6 per cent, while operating expenses were $87,552,841.94, an increase of 3.8 per cent.

In a letter to stockholders, President James M. Kurn noted attention to an increase of 23.2 per cent in long-distance tonnage through acquisition of the Muscle Shoals, Birmingham, Pensacola Railroad and the Jacksonville, Lake City & Eastern Railroad.

A decrease in passenger traffic is reported as "due to expansion in the building of hard roads, resulting in increased use of motor cars."

Revenue freight handled increased 67,000 cars. The agricultural developments in the territory served by the Frisco were described as "satisfactory," and "despite unfavorable weather conditions resulting in serious damage to fruit and vegetables, the tonnage derived from this source increased considerably over the previous year."

During the year 401 new lines of freight were opened up in the territory. The property was "fully maintained and generally improved," the report says. The principal roadway improvements, including the laying of 103 miles of new 100-pound rail, and renewing 145,303 ties.

FRANK FORD'S BROTHER AND WIDOW DISPUTE OVER ESTATE

Former Renewes His Efforts to Have Her Removed as Administratrix.

Obedient to a court order, Martha G. Ford, administratrix, filed a report yesterday in the Probate Court at Clayton asserting that the Ford Magneto Co., 2610 Locust street, was worth $3102, instead of $70,000, as was alleged by John Ford.

Mrs. Ford contended that only she and her late husband, Frank Ford, had a financial interest in the magneto company, and consequently she was not compelled to include its property in the inventory of the estate. John Ford, a brother of Frank, tried to have Mrs. Ford removed as administratrix, but failed. Probate Judge Hodgdon, however, ordered Mrs. Ford to make the supplementary inventory. Ford filed an appeal in Circuit Court yesterday in another effort to remove Mrs. Ford.

Unvarying
Comfort

At 50 Above—or 20 Below!

To you as a home-owner, this is the meaning of Kleen-Heet's recognized engineering superiority:

You decide you want the house kept at 70, let us say. You set the thermostat. Then hour after hour, day after day, month after month, 70 is the temperature you have. Not 65 now, and again 75—but 70! Whether, outside, it is below zero or so mild that it is only necessary to "take the chill off the house."

Think what that means, not only to comfort,
but to health!

This amazing uniformity results from the instant efficiency of the Kleen-Heet burner. The moment Kleen-Heet is called into action, it is fully responsive.
So, naturally, it gives more efficient heating—and greater fuel economy, as well.

As evidenced by Kleen-Heet's remarkable record of performance—in homes of every size—through more than six years.

SOREL AT 50 BRIDE
OF COMTE DE SEGUR

Leading Lady of Comedie Francaise Weds Scion of Ancient Family.

By the Associated Press.
MARSEILLES, France, May 18.
—Mlle. Cecil Sorel, 50 years old, leading lady of the Comedie Francaise, yesterday became the Comtesse de Segur. The marriage ceremony was performed by the Parish priest in the little village of Penes-Mirabeau, about 10 miles from here, whither the couple fled to avoid publicity.

The bride has long been a national character, talked about almost as frequently as Clemenceau, Foch or Poincare. She made a visit to the United States and Canada in 1922, where she gave her interpretation of Moliere's classics.
Although velling the civil and religious marriage with utmost secrecy, the actress had among her witnesses two newspapermen, Leon Bailly, editor-in-chief of the Intransigent of Paris, and Adrien Fauchier, another Parisian journalist.

She said her one day's honeymoon would be spent in the village of Martignes, near here.

Mlle. Sorel was born Sept. 17,
1875, and her real name is Celine Seure. Her aged mother attended her wedding.

Sorel's stage charm comes in part from the vigorous physical exercise and severe massage which she indulges in. She is not afraid to take stage falls and plays such roles as "Katherine" in "Taming of the Shrew" with such intense-ness that she has been known to slide over the footlights into the spectators' laps.

The bridegroom belongs to the old family of De Segur-La Moig-non, which has furnished numerous Ambassadors and members of the French Academy.

CHAPTER 34.

Sept. 7th.
HALLIDAY has saved me from arrest, by giving to the police the information which he has been gathering on the case all summer. Has made a quiet gesture, which is like him, and given me back to life, liberty and the pursuit of literature.

He came out late last night, and I understand is still asleep. He has had very little sleep, poor lad, for a long time.

I myself collapsed this morning, and Hayward has put me back to bed. Edith, spreading my coverings neatly before Greenough came up, says I am now so like that.

"You really make a hollow, William. If it were not for your feet, nobody would know you are there!"

It is impossible to record in detail my conversation this afternoon with Greenough, covering as it did more than an hour. He came in, I thought, slightly uncomfortable and perhaps a little crestfallen, and I motioned him to a chair. He sat down and mopped his face with his handkerchief, and after that stooped and rather deliberately wiped his shoes with it. Then he straightened and looked at me.

"Well, professor," he said, "it's a damned queer world, there's no denying it."

"The world's all right. It's the people in it who mess things up. 'Like flowers on a dog,' was his rather abstracted comment. He felt in his pocket, with much the same gesture as on that early visit of his when he had drawn the triangle within the circle on the back of an old envelope. Whether the movement was reminiscent to him, as it was to me, I cannot say. But he glanced at me quickly and then smiled.

"Sort of had me going, you did, there for awhile!" he said. "But I was getting pretty close to the facts before this diary came along. Of course, it helped."

He had Gordon's diary in his hand.

"Naturally," he said, fingering the book, "your young friend's information was valuable; I'm not discounting that. The hand-print on the window board, for instance, I'd have found it sooner or later, but it saved time. And the young lady, too. She'd done her bit, and I was getting pretty close to the facts before this diary came along. Of course, it helped."

He snapped out this last statement, and I gathered that he was still smarting under the knowledge that, without Halliday and Edith, he would still be nowhere. It was, more or less, his defense.

"Of course," he said, "ever since we got hold of this diary of Gordon's, one thing's been pretty clear. Bethel wasn't working alone. According to what I saw of him it wasn't possible. He couldn't even have made a getaway without help. The only question was, who'd helped him?"

"Well," he said, "you'll have to admit that you've seemed to get out of your way all summer to go into trouble! As a matter of fact, I didn't pick you up; it was Gordon." He looked at my clock. "I've only got an hour," he said. "Your piece is slinging on the stairs now, holding a stop watch on me. I can't read you this thing, but I can tell you what's in it. And believe me, that's plenty."

Briefly, then, the deciphering of the diary had left me in a very bad position. When they had finished it, it was Bethel's idea to arrest me at once. They had the boy's body, a fact they had kept to themselves, and I was within an ace of a charge of murder.

But Halliday had stayed. He seemed to feel there was trouble coming. Greenough said, "He hung around and drove us all crazy. He insisted, and he'd brought the key, on his right to read the stuff as it came through; and as it went on, he didn't know exactly what to do."

"Finally, seeing what was in the air, he made a trade with us. He was willing to have you brought in and interrogated, but on condition that if you weren't held he'd come over with something of his own. You got the point, of course. There's a reward involved, and he'd been holding out on us a bit." He waved his hand. "That's natural. We don't hold it against him. But the point is, he made his trade."

Coming to my examination, my answers had apparently impressed Hemingway satisfactorily. On the other hand, added to the diary's constant suspicion of me, was Greenough's own case against me. He passed over that rather lightly. "I wasn't trying to make out a case against you," he said. "As a matter of fact, you couldn't have been the man who attacked Halliday. You weren't here."

"Naturally," I agreed, gravely. "I wasn't here. Of course, if I had been here—"

He glanced at me quickly, and went back to the night of the inquiry.

"The question was, whether to hold you or not. You may remember Hemingway going out, when it was over, and talking to Halliday outside? Well, it was then he made the trade."

Apparently the fact that Gordon had been the victim had not been the surprise to the police that it had been to me. For one thing, the microscope had shown one detail which the detective had not mentioned to me at the time. Caught between the handle of the knife and the blade had been a short piece of hair. The microscope showed this hair not only young, a matter readily determined, and the approximate color of Gordon's; it also showed it liberally coated with pomade. Poor Gordon's glistening, varnished hair!

But Greenough had been inclined at first to think that there had been two victims, instead of one. "Dying and passing on," he says, "is not like taking your thumb out of a bowl of soup. It's bound to leave some sort of a hole."

And there had been no hole. If Bethel had died and passed on, no one apparently missed him. As time went on and no queries were received, the thing began to look ominous; as though Bethel himself had been hiding away, under an assumed name.

The idea that Bethel had had an enemy from whom he was hiding, and who had found him, began to intrude itself.

"But," he said, with engaging frankness, "that eliminated you. And you wouldn't be eliminated. You were like some people you've seen, when there's a cameraman about; always getting in front of the machine and into the picture."

"And the King will not be able to whip a cat, but I shall be at the tail of it," I quoted. He looked rather bewildered.

Then came the diary, and Gordon brought me in unmistakably, and in a way they had not thought of. Not an enemy, but an accomplice; Bethel hiding there, with my connivance, and the two of us, he the brains presumably and I the hands, working out between us some sinister design which even the boy could not understand.

"Whatever it is," Gordon had written, shortly after the Morrison girl's disappearance, "he's got outside help." And he wonders if I am guilty. But he is not sure of that; he even suspects Bethel, in one entry, of being less helpless than he appeared, and possibly of "working on his own." He abandoned the idea, however, and there was a time when he suspected Thomas; even a time when he thought of bringing his suspicions to me.

But Bethel was beginning to be afraid of him. He thinks Bethel knows he has discovered the boat. He grows alarmed and buys a knife; he records that "he can take care of himself." But there is bravado in it. Later on, he finds that he is occasionally stealthily locked in at night, for three or four hours, and he buys a rope and hides it in his room. After that matters moved rapidly.

He found the gun room window unlocked on certain nights, and set a watch on it. And on one such night Bethel tried to kill him. "He tried to kill me last night," he writes on the 27th of July, and goes on to say that Bethel couldn't have tied him, and that "maybe it was Porter." From that time on he suspected me.

And Bethel was watching him.

NOTES ABOUT WOMEN

Women are prohibited from acting as jurors in Idaho.

The Queen of Belgium is considered the best-dressed woman in Europe.

Lady Erleigh of London lectures to train farmers how to be satisfactory parents.

Belgian hand-made lace is manufactured chiefly in the Flanders provinces and is practically all made by women in the farm houses.

There are now five women members of the British Parliament, the latest feminine member to be elected being Miss Susan Lawrence.

Women of Brazil have greater legal freedom than women of the United States, but the women of the United States have wider social freedom.

Vegetable Salad.
Boil two large potatoes, two carrots, one small turnip, and a small cauliflower. When the vegetables are done, cool and dice them, then slice down the cauliflower. Heat and drain a small can of peas, and drain a small can of corn. Wipe a large flat salad plate with a cut bud of garlic, and arrange the lettuce leaves on it. Mix each vegetable with white mayonnaise and arrange star fashion from the center. Lay slices of the cauliflower around the edge and in the middle put deviled eggs cut in quarters, stoned olives stuffed with a little anchovy paste and short lengths of stuffed celery.

Nothing is so dramatic in all the diary as the situation unconsciously revealed between the paralytic and the boy; each watching the other; the guard up between them, while the servant is in the room, and then down again. The boy recklessly mocking, the old man grim and waiting.

And nothing said. The boy goes to the city and tries to buy a revolver, but there is a new law in effect, and he fails. He has the knife, and has to trust to that. He thinks of going to the police while he is in the city; the reward would be a big thing. He says: "I could go around the world on ten thousand." But his case isn't complete; he needs the outside man. He suspects me, but he "hasn't the goods" on me.

And there are times when he admits the possibility that I may not be the outside man. One night he hears the unknown in the house. There is a reddish glare and he sees a figure steal into the den. But it "did not look like Porter." And he is more puzzled than ever, for Bethel is in his room, asleep, and although the boy camps on the stairs until daylight, he does not see the figure again.

"At daylight examined den and library. All windows closed and locked. It beats me."

It is about time, too, that he begins to believe that Bethel is not only watching him, but that he is expecting trouble from some other source. He tells Bethel he has seen a figure go into the den at night, and Bethel shows alarm.

"He and the other one have quarreled," he says. "And B's afraid of him."

But on the night when he came home, to find Starr, Halliday and myself in the house, he returned in full force. He decides that Bethel and I have had a quarrel, and that one of us has tried to shoot the other! But his knife has been taken; he steals one from the kitchen and carefully sharpens it; but he is not so frightened as he has been. Bethel and I have quarreled, and he "can handle the old man."

But matters were rapidly approaching a climax. Bethel was going to give up the house and let him go. He seems to have dared Bethel to discharge him, and to have more than hinted at what he suspects.

"I can talk for ten thousand," he writes, "or keep quiet for twenty. He can take his choice." He has the upper hand, now. The other man is no longer in evidence; they have apparently quarreled, and Bethel is left to bear the situation alone. The boy lays various traps, but no one enters the house. "The murder pact" is broken, and the old man sits in his chair and broods.

"Blackmail is an ugly word," he says once.

"Not half so ugly as murder," retorts Gordon, and notes it with satisfaction in his diary.

"Murder" was the last word he wrote there.

But, for all his apparent frankness, Greenough's errand was clearly only to relieve my anxieties concerning myself. He refused all further information.

"We have a suspect, all right," he said. "I don't mind saying that. But we haven't a case yet, and it's tough and go whether we get one. Until we do, we're not talking."

To Be Continued.

SKETCHED AT CHURCHILL DOWNS
DERBY DAY

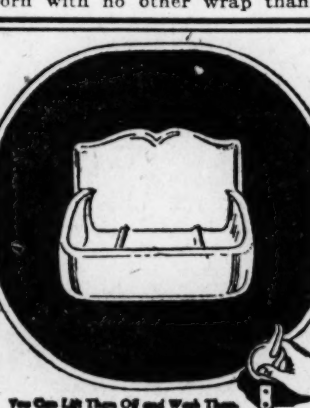

By MARGUERITE MARTIN.

Left to Right—An ensemble suit of mustard yellow kasha diamond patterned in brown. The frock is cut two-piece fashion with bands of brown and a brown facing shows at the edge of the coat. A felt hat matches the brown plaid.

A quilted coat of rose crepe with collar, cuffs and rounded front sections faced with white crepe was worn over a chiffon frock and with a hair braid hat.

Gazelle, leopard and antelope skins are popular trappings of the new spring coats. The one sketched is of golden tan kasha faced all the way down the front and round the neck to the waist with leopard. The hat is a turban in straw and felt combination with cuff brim cut out in an effective design.

In the background leaning over the fence of the paddock is a figure in a sport frock of bottle green velvet made with short narrow skirt and a simple blouse that had gold buttons somewhere on the front. It was warm enough to be worn with no other wrap than a fur neckpiece, and, though simple in cut, bright enough to attract attention.

Next, also in the background, is a figure wearing a two-piece suit of scarlet, flannel blouse, black-and-white checked skirt edged with black braid, collar and belt of the checked material.

Walking toward us is a costume striking in color and unusual in the plaid. The blouse of the crepe has hush slipped through slots and scarf at neck of the crisp taffeta which really was more like old-fashioned "summer silk." A hat of shiny dark blue balbrunette trimmed with ostrich was worn by this smart figure.

An older matron wore black black satin, the very full circular cape with scarf collar fastened at the back of the neck. A varicolored kerchief trailed from a pocket. Some of the more extreme hats are so tight that they fit the head like a skull cap, allowing of no creases, such as the one of gray felt worn by this figure.

A frock of black crepe was belted round the hip with three closely placed bands tied into loops that were decorated with a design of gold and silver nailheads. The little scarf collar was similarly decorated. The black satin hat is cut in sections and adorned with a crystal and emerald pin.

Scalloped edges and a cape which has one side cut long enough to be thrown back over the opposite shoulder are the features of a frock of navy blue charmeuse. There are touches of blue and white polka dot linings.

Worn by a small youthful matron was a navy blue crepe with a great deal of knife pleating, full and flustering, down the front and twice round the skirt.

Next is an odd combination of plaid taffeta and black crepe. The skirt is finely accented pleated of the plaid. The blouse of the crepe has hush slipped through slots and scarf at neck of the crisp taffeta which really was more like old-fashioned "summer silk." A hat of shiny dark blue balbrunette trimmed with ostrich was worn by this smart figure.

A striking little costume was this, white and black one; the blouse of white crepe, the skirt of crepe combined with a brick red and orange dotted print. Two tiers of the printed crepe adorn the skirt and a band edges the pointed circular cape which is attached to the blouse. This woman wore a high-crowned black satin hat, almost like a crushed top hat, adorned with three pins enameled red to match the trimming of the frock. She fairly jingled with jewelry as she walked. Enormous earrings were of gold patterned in black enamel. She wore two three circles round her neck and a multiplicity of gold link bracelets.

Most of the hats worn Derby day, due to the cloudy weather, were variations of the close-fitting cloche. A brighter sun would have brought out more of the wide-brimmed milans. A group of hats selected for their oddity as well as style are sketched in the inset. One is a Spanish sailor of black moire silk adorned with a large medal of silver and enamel. Another is a small black felt draped and cut into a contour suggesting Egyptian. The band is of French blue belting ribbon.

A quaint cloche of orange-colored taffeta had its brim and crown edged with narrow plippings of green, orange and yellow taffeta and a wide green taffeta band appliqued with figures representing clowns, balloons and trees.

Three Minute Journeys

Where a Mouth Organ Is the Gift of Gifts.

YOU may think a pearl necklace would be the most acceptable gift in the world, or an ermine wrap or a jeweled pocket watch. But none of these things would tempt the Maku Indians of the Amazon nearly so much as a simple mouth organ. He might waver slightly if you offered him his choice of a burning glass, a good knife, or a mouth organ, but he very probably would find the last the irresistible object.

These Indians are a thoroughly independent, self-sufficient tribe of people. They are scrupulously clean, alert mentally, sturdy and well developed in the gentle art of human kindness, at least toward each other.

They have had practically no contact with what we call civilization. All of their weapons, their boats and utensils are of metals, even of iron.

Needless to say, their clothes are extremely limited. A loin cloth is all that any man or woman among them wears and the children dispense with that superfluity. Yet strange as it may seem, although the mosquitoes, gnats and insects infest the land in great unescapable droves, torturing the fully clad white man, they seem to have no effect on the native.

The naked brown skins are as smooth and unbroken as though such a thing as a mosquito did not exist.

These tropical mosquitoes work quietly. They make no warning noise as the North American mosquito does. You are only aware of their arrival when you feel the sharp sting of their contact with your skin.

However, even the mosquitoes are bearable when compared with the great ants of every variety that swarm everywhere. There are black ants, red ants, white ants—ants of every known kind. And they eat anything and everything. Nothing in the world is safe from a hungry ant. The man who wants to save his clothes for wear in the tropics must keep them away from the ants, for they will devour cloth just as readily as they will food or wood or anything else.

Children's Bedtime Story

The Merry Little Breezes Help Johnny

The Merry Little Breezes say:
"Be helpful even in your play."

OLD Mother West Wind had just told Johnny Chuck that he was in the Old Pasture. Never had Johnny had a greater surprise. You see, the Old Pasture hadn't once entered Johnny's head. He never had been up there to the Old Pasture, and although he knew much about it from what Peter Rabbit had told him, he hadn't recognized it when Farmer Brown's Boy had set him free from the box trap. You remember that Farmer Brown's Boy had taken Johnny up there because Johnny had been in mischief in the Old Orchard.

Johnny forgot his bad temper. Yes, sir, he did so. Johnny forgot his bad temper because he was interested. He wanted to know what the Old Pasture was like. He had dug himself a house and he felt quite safe, although he was hungry and didn't know just which way to turn to get something to eat. But to learn that he was in the Old Pasture was rather exciting. He knew that Reddy Fox lived up here somewhere. He suspected that Old Man Coyote also lived here. He knew that sometimes in the berry season Buster Bear came to the Old Pasture. So he had a great curiosity to see the Old Pasture and become acquainted with it. Instead of kicking angrily at his pile of sand, as he had been doing, he sat up and sighed.

"What are you sighing for, Johnny Chuck?" Old Mother West Wind asked.

"I'm sighing," said Johnny, and stopped to sigh right in the middle of what he was saying, "because there is so much I want to see and I know no one up here to ask the way. I don't feel at all safe wandering about, not knowing whom I may meet around the next turn, or where there is a hiding place should I need it. No, sir, I don't feel at all safe. Here I am up in the Old Pasture and I suppose I won't see it at all, because I have no one to show me about. If I should undertake to go about by myself I am afraid I would run my head

So instead of kicking angrily at his pile of sand, as he had been doing, he sat up and sighed right into the jaws of Old Man Coyote, or do something else equally bad. That's the worst of being in a place of which you know nothing."

Old Mother West Wind looked thoughtful. Then she opened her big bag and emptied out of it her children—the Merry Little Breezes. "Play with Johnny Chuck," said she, "while I go about my day's work. And if you can help Johnny, do it."

Then Old Mother West Wind started off about her day's work. She had windmills to turn; she had rain clouds to blow where they were needed; she had ships to sail across the great ocean; she had many, many things to do, for Old Mother West Wind is a very busy person.

The Merry Little Breezes had nothing to do but play. So they danced about Johnny Chuck. They ruffled his hair and tickled his whiskers. And as they danced they sang softly:

"It helps to pass the time away To aid your neighbors by the way.
Hop, skip, skip, hop.
You'll never miss us 'til we stop."

Then they all urged Johnny Chuck to take a walk and told him they would go with him. So some danced ahead and some stayed behind. Some did merry little whirls on each side of him. And whenever one found an interesting little odor, he hurried right back with it to Johnny Chuck. And so it was that Johnny's little black nose was kept busy every minute, and Johnny knew before he got there just what he would find around each turn and bend in the little path. The Merry Little Breezes were playing, but they were also helping Johnny Chuck; and they were happy, very happy, for there is nothing the Merry Little Breezes delight in more than in helping others.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

Fresh Meat.
Meat should never be placed in the ice compartment of the refrigerator. Ice always draws the flavor out of meat. Place the meat directly below the ice chamber on a plate and cover with a piece of waxed paper.

Put Them Away Carefully.
The winter hats and trimmings that are to be saved for next season should be put in boxes lined with newspapers and sprinkled with camphor. Moths can be as destructive in hat boxes as in trunks and chests.

Common Salt.
Salt will make whitewash stick. Salt on fresh ink stains will help in removing the marks. Salt will revive a poor fire if thrown directly on the coals. Salt thrown on soot will prevent it from making a stain on the rug or carpet. Salt and water solution is an excellent gargle and inhaler for colds in the head. Salt thrown on the carpet before sweeping will brighten the colors immensely.

Canned Cherries.
Prepare as for preserves, only use a half pint of sugar to a pint of the fruit. Cook until the fruit is done, then can hot in the usual way. Turn the cans upside down to cool; when cold tighten the covers and store in a dry place.

JUDGE WHO SAT IN RUTHERFORD CASE ASSAILS IT AS "ROTTEN"

Mix Explains He Kept Silent to Give the Circuit Attorney "Enough Rope to Hang Himself."

NO SPECIAL EFFORT TO TRACE WITNESSES

Grand Jury Called for Tomorrow to Investigate Expenditures—Gov. Baker May Act.

Circuit Judge George E. Mix, who accepted the recommendation of Circuit Attorney Sidener that William Allen Scott Rutherford be allowed to plead guilty of manslaughter before him and escape with a fine of $500 from an indictment for second degree murder, yesterday, in a statement to Post-Dispatch reporters, denounced the outcome of the case as "rotten" and declared he withheld his denunciation at that time because he wanted to give Sidener "enough rope to hang himself with."

"Sidener brought into my court a nice piece of rope for his own neck," said Judge Mix. "Why should I have warned him? I knew his proposal to release Rutherford was rotten. I knew there would be a roar from the newspapers. I realized that the people would resent it. But Sidener is not answerable to me. He is not answerable to the grand jury. He is answerable only to the people."

Another development today in the investigation was the statement of Chief Deputy Sheriff Rudolph Lange that Circuit Attorney Sidener made no request upon him for special effort in locating the "missing" witnesses in the case.

Usual Practice Not Followed.
He said that two searches were made by his deputies in the rooming houses of the Rutherford witnesses, but that had the Circuit Attorney's office, as its custom when vitally interested in finding important witnesses, made request to him for special effort in the case, he would have assigned deputies to make an exhaustive search.

Gov. Baker yesterday, when asked whether he would direct the Attorney General to investigate the case, said "I have heard enough bumbling to make me think this matter should be looked into." He made no definite announcement of any plan before leaving Jefferson City on a speaking tour today, and Attorney General Gentry said he had received no word from the Governor.

The Governor received the following telegram from Judge Mix, who is in charge of the grand jury: "I believe the Governor and Attorney General should, if legally possible, investigate with the aid of the grand jury the methods of prosecuting crime in St. Louis."

Circuit Attorney Sidener today called the grand jury to meet at 10 a. m. tomorrow, "to make a full investigation of the Rutherford case," including the manner in which the Rutherford family spent about $15,000 to "arrange" things so the defendant would not be sent to prison.

He sent a telegram to W. A. S. Rutherford and his brother, John Rutherford, at Pine Bluff, Ark., asking them to come here for the grand jury inquiry tomorrow.

The regular time for the grand jury to meet would be tomorrow afternoon. Edward A. Faust, capitalist, who is foreman of the grand jury, said, before the Circuit Attorney's announcement, that he intended to ask for an informal discussion of the Rutherford case at tomorrow afternoon's session.

Judge Mix and Circuit Attorney Sidener are personal and political enemies. Judge Mix, as is known, attempted last year to have a grand jury investigation of Sidener's conduct of the Circuit Attorney's office.

Says He Knew All About It.
"I am not on speaking terms with the Circuit Attorney's office," Judge Mix continued. "Nor was I tricked into concurrence with Sidener's recommendation. I knew of the agreement between Sidener and the Rutherford lawyers. Judge Frey warned me in the corridor outside my courtroom before the agreement was entered on the records. But what could I do?"

"I told that it is mandatory on a Circuit Judge to accept the recommendation of the Circuit Attorney. I believe that the right of nolle prosequi also carries the right to assess punishment. If the Circuit Attorney can dismiss a criminal
